THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, January 10, 1972

RETROACTIVE PAY TO BE GIVEN--- The University will issue "retroactive-pay" checks on Jan. 19 to those persons whose salary increases were frozen during Phase I of the Economic Stabilization Act (Aug. 14-Nov. 14). On Dec. 22, President Nixon signed a bill permitting retroactive pay increases under contracts which were agreed to before Aug. 15, 1971.

E. K. MORRIS DINNER APPROACHING--- More than 660 tickets have been sold for the dinner on Jan. 25 honoring Board Chairman E. K. Morris. The black-tie affair will be held in the Regency Room of the Shoreham Hotel with cocktails at 6:30, and dinner at 7:30. GW alumnus F. Elwood Davis is serving as chairman of the event. Mr. Morris will retire in June. The funds from the dinner ($100 per plate, $1,000 per table of 10) will go to the E. K. Morris Education Fund. Those interested in attending the dinner may obtain invitations from, and purchase tickets through, the President's Office.

GW FEATURED IN NATIONAL MEDIA--- During December and January, University people and programs were featured in several magazines and newspapers with nationwide audiences. Dr. Bennett Olshaker, a GW pediatric psychiatrist and alumnus, appeared with his family on NBC's Today Show on Jan. 3. He discussed his newly published book, What Shall We Tell the Kids?.....The course, Developing New Horizons for Women, is featured in the January issue of Parents magazine.....Time magazine developed a separate story on Dr. Philip Pollner of GW's Student Health Service along with its Dec. 27 cover story on the "New American Samaritans." Dr. Pollner has established a clinic in Holmes County, Miss., to treat indigent black farmers and their families without charge. He travels to this area every third week for a three-day weekend.....GW was listed in Parade magazine, Dec. 26, among the few institutions offering personnel training programs at the master's level for teachers of the handicapped.....Professor Sar Levitan's paper on unemployment among black youths was written up in the Dec. 1 issue of the New York Times.....Professor J. Martyn Bailey's theories about Jupiter's moons were noted in the space section of the New York Times on Dec. 5.....Academic innovations in Columbian College have been featured in more than 30 newspapers through the Copley News Service. A special article about the innovations will appear in the Jan. 29 Christian Science Monitor.....

-more-

Dr. Henry L. Feffer, Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery, was interviewed on "backache" by U. S. News and World Report and a condensation of that article appeared in the December issue of Reader's Digest.

WASHINGTONIANS OF THE YEAR--- Three GW alumni are among the 10 "Washingtonians of the Year" selected by The Washingtonian magazine and announced in its January issue. They are: Peggy Cooper (BA '69, JD '71) who founded and developed the Workshops for Careers in the Arts, now "a year-round, five-day-a-week, 150-student creative explosion budgeted at $165,000 annually"; Harold Greene (LLB '52), Chief Judge of the Superior Court a "quiet revolutionary" who "more than any other person... has made judicial reform and the quest for equal justice here matter for hope instead of despair"; and Joseph Danzansky (BA '35, JD '36), president of Giant Food, Inc., who "led the industry in 1971 toward a new concern for the consumer," served as president of the Board of Trade and campaign chairman of UGF, and "worked long and hard to pull the metropolitan area together and to give us all a renewed sense of purpose."

STUDENT ORIENTATION COORDINATING COMMITTEE APPOINTED--- This new committee, appointed by the Provost, will coordinate the academic, social, and residential orientation activities for all new students. A memorandum on this subject stresses that "throughout the Committee's work, each unit of the University will retain its present responsibility. The Committee's assignment is coordination, not program presentation." The memorandum also states that "we must improve coordination of all elements of campus life for the new George Washington student." The committee is to provide written reports to the Provost periodically, with copies to appropriate deans and to the Vice President for Student Affairs. Members of the committee are: John Perkins, Coordinator of Student Activities and Orientation, Chairman; Barbara Dunham, Columbian College; Scot Mannion, School of Engineering and Applied Science; Norma Loeser, School of Government and Business Administration; Frederick Houser, Registrar; Kenneth Bumgarner, Assistant to the Vice President for Student Affairs; Barbara Lembcke, Assistant Dean of Students; Bill Corcoran, Residence Hall Association; Leora Maizel, Residence Hall Association; and Scott Sklar, Program Board.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, January 17, 1972

FILMING OF PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES SET--- An exception to D.C. zoning regulations was obtained recently allowing the American Program Bureau to produce filmed interviews entitled "The New Voters' Series" in the Marvin Theatre from Jan. 21-29. The exception was granted by District officials after GW's Political Science department agreed to co-sponsor the series with the Marvin Center Program Board. Academic sponsorship made possible the interpretation of the series as an educational program of the University, thereby enabling the District to approve the use of University facilities by the American Program Bureau as a variance to the zoning regulations which prohibit the use of these facilities by profit-making organizations.

Candidates for the Presidency and other political figures will be interviewed by a panel made up of two students from each of several area schools -- GW, GU, AU and Howard. Free tickets to these programs (no more than two per person) can be obtained at the information desk at the Center. Tickets also are available to departments and schools. No tickets will be given at the door.

The schedule is as follows:

JAN. 21: Sen. William Brock, Tennesse, 4 p.m.

JAN. 22: Sen. Mike Gravel, Alaska, 12:30 p.m.
Sen. Henry Jackson, Washington, 4 p.m.
Sen. Edmund Muskie, Maine, 7 p.m.

JAN. 24: Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas, 9 a.m.
Sen. Robert Taft, Ohio, 1 p.m.

JAN. 25: Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, New York, to be announced

JAN. 26: Rep. Shirley Chisholm, New York, 9 a.m.
Larry O'Brien, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, 11 a.m.

-more-

JAN. 26: (continued)
Eugene McCarthy, former Senator from Minnesota, 4 p.m.
Rep. Paul McCloskey, California, 7 p.m.

JAN. 27: John Gardner, Common Cause, 2 p.m.
Sen. George McGovern, South Dakota, 3:45 p.m.

JAN. 28: Rep. Gerald Ford, Michigan, 9 a.m.
Rep. Philip Crane, Illinois, 1 p.m.
Rep. William Steiga, Wisconsin, 2:30 p.m.

JAN. 29: Julian Bond, Georgia State Legislature, 10 a.m.
Dr. Benjamin C. Spock, 11:15 a.m.

Still to be announced are dates and times for Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota; Sen. Robert Dole, Kansas, and Chairman of the Republican National Committee; Sen. Edward Brooke, Massachusetts; Sen. Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania; Sen. Vance Hartke, Indiana; and Sen. Jacob Javits, New York.

COURSES IN JAPANESE STUDIES ANNOUNCED--- In connection with its new Japanese studies program, the Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies is offering three undergraduate and graduate courses this spring semester: Economics 170: Introduction to the Economy of Japan (3), Mr. Akabane, Ms. Hadley; Political Science 194: Government and Politics of China and Japan (3), Mr. Michael; and Political Science 294: Seminar on Government and Politics of Japan (3), Mr. Watanabe. Takao Akabane is Economic Counselor at the Japanese Embassy, and Eleanor Hadley, a senior specialist on Japanese industry with the U.S. Tariff Commission. Hajime Watanabe is visiting professor from Kyoto's Ritsumeikan University.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, January 25, 1971

BOARD ADOPTS 1971-72 BUDGET---An $81,000,000 budget for 1971-72 for the University and for The Medical Center was adopted by the Board of Trustees on Jan. 21. The University Budget shows more than a $2,700,000 increase over the current year, and The Medical Center Budget an increase of more than $5,000,000. While both budgets reflect increased expenses due to inflation, the University Budget increase does provide for continued strengthening of library resources and services, for modest increases in faculty salaries, and for various capital improvements. In The Medical Center, all except $250,000 of the $5,000,000 increase occurs in the Hospital and Clinic and reflects more medical services for more people as well as for the increasing costs of medical care.

The Medical Center Budget is balanced, thanks to anticipated income for the medical school from federal appropriations, but the University Budget (excluding The Medical Center) shows a budgeted deficit of $267,092. University officials do not expect a "cash-flow" or "spending" deficit, however. Budget Director William D. Johnson said: "Although budgeting in the red, we expect to continue to operate in the black by generating internal savings which will prevent the budgeted deficit from developing into a reality." Thus, the "hiring freeze" will be continued into the fall, "at which time we'll know more clearly what our situation will be." The situation will be determined primarily by the extent to which goals are reached in regard to (a) spring and fall registration, (b) annual giving, and (c) cost-cutting programs, such as the "freeze," already initiated. The 1971-72 budget anticipates no increase in the number of students (many private colleges and universities are reporting severe decreases in enrollment this year).

-more-

Tuition increases for 1971-72 will be as previously projected and announced: $150 a year for all full-time students, except medical; $500 for first-year medical students; and $300 for other medical students. For 1972-73 and 1973-74, tuition increases for non-medical students continue to be projected at $150 a year. For 1974-75, the Board of Trustees approved a projected increase of $75 for the academic year, which will bring the total tuition at that time to $2,425.

The Board of Trustees also reviewed the current 1970-71 budget and noted that if the hiring freeze had not been effected, and if all vacant positions had been filled, the University would have an actual deficit of about $300,000 at the end of the year. The Medical Center Budget for 1970-71 is balanced.

TRUSTEES GIVE GO-AHEAD FOR LIBRARY AND PARKING BUILDINGS---Financial arrangements for the new University Library and the new Parking Structure have been completed, and the Board of Trustees at its meeting on Jan. 21 authorized the University to proceed with the construction of both buildings.

The library is expected to get underway this spring, and the parking building this summer. Both will be located at 22nd and H, the library on the southeast corner, the parking structure on the northwest corner.

The seven-story library building will cost about $7,000,000 and will take two years to complete. The last financial hurdle was cleared in December, when GW received an interest-grant-subsidy approval from the federal government. This means that the government will subsidize more than half of the interest cost on a $5,000,000 private loan toward construction costs. Other funds for the library have come from private gifts and a federal grant. The major private "contributors" were two tomcats---named Hellcat and Brownie. They had "inherited" about half a million dollars from their owner, Dr. William W. Grier (A.B. and M.D. degrees from GW), and on the death of the cats the money was designated for the University.

Chapin Hall and Building W will be razed to make way for the new library. Tenants of those buildings will be moved primarily to the old Student Union, which is undergoing alterations.

The parking structure, expected to be completed by the fall of 1972, will accommodate more than 1,000 cars and will be used by faculty, staff, students, and visitors. It will have three entrances and ten floors, seven above ground and three below. Financed through a private loan, the project will cost about $4,600,000.

PETITION PRESENTED TO BOARD---A petition signed by 208 students was presented to the Board of Trustees through Trustee Richard Harrison on Jan. 21. The petition, prepared by an ad hoc "Right to Know Board," requests the Board of Trustees to open its meetings to the public. Board Chairman E. K. Morris said the petition will be given "thorough consideration."

TRUSTEES APPROVE NEW JUDICIAL SYSTEM---At its meeting on Jan. 21, the Board of Trustees approved the Judicial System for Nonacademic Student Discipline, as recommended by the Faculty Senate on Dec. 11 and as modified by further action of the Faculty Senate on Jan. 15. The new system is effective immediately. It is subject to change at such time or in such manner as the Board of Trustees may elect. The Board directed its Student Affairs Committee "to make such further recommendations as it deems desirable and necessary" after discussion with the appropriate University bodies, and to make a report at the March meeting of the Board.

EVENT OF THE WEEK---The program board of the University Center is sponsoring "The Groove Tube," a spoof on TV and TV commercials. The show will be given at 4, 7, and 9 p.m. on Thursday and Friday; and at 7, 9, and 11 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is 75 cents.

EXAMS OVER BEFORE CHRISTMAS---Students will finish their semester exams before Christmas next year as a result of a modified semester plan recommended by the Faculty Senate and approved by President Elliott.

The schools of law and medicine will not be affected by the new plan, although the plan will apply to all other graduate and undergraduate students.

The senate passed the measure 12-9 after extended debate.

Under the new plan, registration for Fall 1971 semester will be Sept. 9-11 (Thursday-Saturday), and classes will start Monday, Sept. 13. The last day of classes will be Friday, Dec. 10, and final examinations will begin Monday, Dec. 13 and continue through Wednesday, Dec. 22. (See attached calendar.)

Registration for Spring 1972 semester will begin Jan. 20, with classes starting Jan. 24.

Under the new plan, the reading period will be virtually eliminated, although the actual number of in-class sessions will be comparable. One weekend, Dec. 11-12, is designated as the "interim" for the fall semester, replacing the longer reading period.

-more-

1971-1972 UNIVERSITY CALENDAR

1971	SUN	MON	TUE	WED	THU	FRI	SAT
	Sep 5	H6	7	8	Rg9	Rg10	Rg11
	12	*13	14	15	16	17	18
FALL	19	H20	H21	22	23	24	25
SEMESTER:	26	27	28	J29	30	Oct 1	2
61 in-class	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
teaching days	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31	Nov 1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	H25	H26	H27
	28	29	30	Dec 1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	I11
	I12	E13	E14	E15	E16	E17	E18
	19	E20	E21	E22	23	24	H25
INTERSESSION	26	27	28	29	30	31	H-Jan 1
1972	2	3	4	5	6	G7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	Rg20	Rg21	Rg22
	23	*24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31	Feb 1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
SPRING	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
SEMESTER:	20	H21	22	23	24	25	26
64 in-class	27	28	29	Mar 1	2	3	4
teaching days	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	V26	V27	V28	V29	J-V30	V31	V-Apr 1
	H2	3	4	5	J6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	I29
	I30	I-May 1	I2	I3	E4	E5	E6
	7	E8	E9	E10	E11	E12	E13
	14	15	16	G17	18	19	20

* Classes begin
 Classes end
Rg Registration
H Holiday
J Jewish Holiday
I Interim
E Exam Period
V Vacation Period
H Easter Sunday
G Grades due in Registrar's Office

of In-class Teaching Days

	Fall	Spring
Monday	12	12
Tuesday	12	13
Wednesday	13	13
Thursday	12	13
Friday	12	13
Interim	2	5
Exam Days	9	9

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, January 31, 1972

BOARD ACTIONS--- On Tuesday, Jan. 25, the Board of Trustees met and took action on the following major items:

---approved the projected tuition increases for the academic year 1972-73. Undergraduate tuition will be raised $150 as had been anticipated.

---approved in principle a tuition raise of $75 for undergraduates for the academic year 1975-76 (projected increases for 1973-74 and 1974-75 are $150 and $75, respectively).

---approved an operating budget for the University (excluding the Medical Center) of $47,995,000 for the academic year 1972-73. Under this budget a projected ("paper") deficit of $66,579 is anticipated. The budget is based on the assumption that 150 fewer freshmen will enter the University in the fall of 1972 than entered in the fall of 1971. It is anticipated, however, that the budget "deficit" will not occur as a result of the University's continuation of its freeze on the filling of new or unfilled positions.

---assigned the School of Medicine authority to grant two undergraduate degrees (AA and BA in Allied Health Sciences).

---authorized President Elliott to appoint a steering committee on the All University Assembly (as recommended by the Commission on Governance) to consider the membership and powers of such an Assembly. The steering committee will report to the president. (Other recommendations of the Commission on Governance will be considered at the March meeting of the Board.)

---approved an amendment of the Board's by-laws (Chapter I, Section 4) which reads:

-more-

Upon the expiration of two consecutive full terms of office a member of the Board shall become ineligible for re-election during a period of ten months, except that any member of the Board on May 18, 1972 shall be eligible for re-election for one additional term upon the expiration of his or her current term of office.

---amended parietal rules so that all freshmen and sophomores who reside in residence halls will be required to participate in a mandatory meal plan, and increased the rental rates in Calhoun, Crawford, and Madison Halls by $50 per year and in Thurston Hall to an average rental of not less than $765 per year.

MORRIS DINNER BIG SUCCESS--- More than 750 tickets at $100 each were purchased by friends and associates for the E. K. Morris dinner. All proceeds above expenses will go the the Education Fund previously established by Mr. Morris. The Fund will provide scholarships for deserving students.

BLOOD DRIVE UNDERWAY--- University-wide Blood Recruitment Program is underway and will continue through the end of February. Volunteer recruiters from every segment of the University will be seeking blood donors during the next few weeks. Ken Bumgarner, Assistant to the Vice-President for Student Affairs, is chairman of the effort.

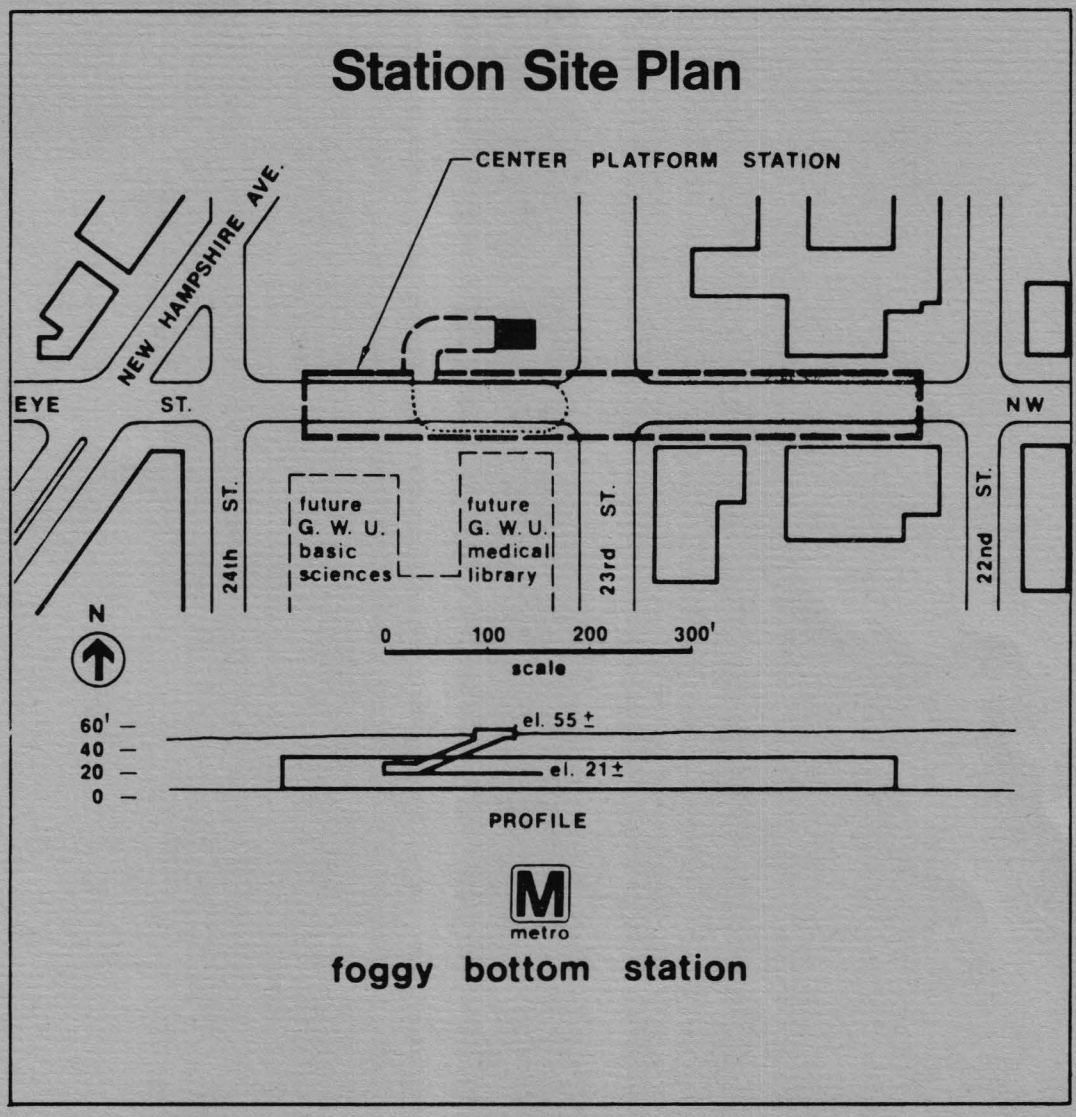
NEW RESEARCH GRANTS--- The School of Engineering and Applied Science has recently received the following new grants:

---$95,500 from the Naval Air Systems Command for the "Evaluation of a new method of energy separation for possible application to aircraft environmental control." Professor Joseph V. Foa, Department of Civil, Mechanical, and Environmental Engineering, is the Principal Investigator. An evaluation will be made of a new method of energy separation which lends itself to utilization in heating, cooling, air conditioning, and pumping apparatus, and perhaps also in some chemical process industries, in desalination, in food processing and in other applications. Professor Foa is the originator of this new method of energy separation.

---$127,000 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to initiate "A Joint Graduate Program in Computer-Aided Structural Design at the NASA Langley Research Center." Dean Harold Liebowitz is the Principal Investigator. The objective of this project is to assist NASA in increasing both the quality and quantity of highly trained people in the broad field of aeronautics by establishing a new graduate study and research program that will concentrate in the general area of computer-aided structural design.

METRO WORK ADVANCES--- Construction work for the Metro subway system continues along the Eye Street area of the GW campus. Four University properties--- the Hospital and Milton, Munson, and Calhoun halls--- are being underpinned to reinforce their foundations during Metro excavations. In addition, 18 plum trees have been removed from the construction route and most of them have been replanted near Calhoun Hall. The park at 21st and Pennsylvania, cleared for tunneling, will be restored to its original form at the completion of construction in 1974.

The following is a sketch of the Foggy Bottom station area:



FOGGY BOTTOM STATION

Station Type:	Subway	Estimated Usage
Platform:	Center	1990 Daily	45,400
Mezzanines:	One	A.M. peak hour	6,400
Access Point:	Northwest corner of 23rd and Eye Streets, N.W.	Public Hearing	Feb. 16, 1971
		Board Approval	March 18, 1971

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, February 7, 1972

DATES CHANGED FOR SPRING COMMENCEMENT--- President Lloyd H. Elliott announced the decision Tuesday at the Faculty Assembly to change the schedule of spring commencement exercises to dates closer to the completion of course work and examinations in the various schools and colleges. This action was recommended by the University's Committee on Public Ceremonies. It is felt that the new schedule will make it possible for more students to be present at commencement and with less inconvenience. In schools where official determination of the graduation list cannot be made before the ceremony, all members of the graduating classes will be invited to attend the ceremonies. Diplomas will not be distributed at commencement, however, but will be mailed from the Registrar's Office after June 1, when eligibility for the degree has been determined.

The new schedule for commencement exercises this spring follows:

Sunday, May 14
1 p.m.	Graduate School of Arts and Sciences	Marvin Theatre
1:30 p.m.	School of Government and Business Administration	Lisner Auditorium
3:30 p.m.	School of Engineering and Applied Science	Marvin Theatre
6 p.m.	School of Public and International Affairs	Marvin Theatre
7 p.m.	School of Education	Lisner Auditorium
8 p.m.	Columbian College	Constitution Hall
Sunday, May 28
4 p.m.	Medical School	Lisner Auditorium
Sunday, June 4
2 p.m.	National Law Center	Lisner Auditorium

-more-

OPEN AUDITIONS--- Faculty are invited to participate in open auditions for the Drama Department's production of A Midsummer Night's Dream, directed by Sydney James. The auditions are scheduled Feb. 8, 9, and 10, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. and 7:30 to 9:00 p.m., in the Marvin Theatre. The play will be performed March 13, 14, and 15 as part of the celebration of the 25th Anniversary of Lisner Auditorium.

FACULTY PHYSICALS--- Any faculty member who participated in the 1971 physical's may call Dr. Richard B. Castell on weekday afternoons between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m. for results. His number is 676-6829.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, February 28, 1972

SECURITY CONSULTANTS ENGAGED--- In view of the recent incidents on campus involving security, the Vice President for Administration, H. John Cantini, has made arrangements for an independent, professional evaluation and review of the University's entire security system. In a separate memorandum to the University community on Feb. 23, Mr. Cantini announced that he had engaged the services of International Intelligence, Inc., well-known security consultants. He said that the "organization has been requested to proceed immediately to analyze and evaluate the University security system and make a written recommendation to the President. This report will be made public to the entire University community and written comments on it will be given full consideration."

In addition, criticisms, suggestions, or recommendations concerning security are being solicited from all students, faculty and staff. Further, Vice President Cantini has requested information from Specialized Management Services, Inc., concerning its procedures now in effect for ensuring that minors (under 18) are not served alcoholic beverages in the Center Rathskeller.

COMMON SENSE SAFETY-PRACTICES URGED--- Student Affairs Vice President W. P. Smith told the Center's Governing Board, Feb. 15, that each person's "observance of common-sense safety practices, or lack of observing them, can make or break the tightest security 'system' that can be applied," to the Center or any other campus facility. He emphasized:

"... If we are to have increased security, everyone -- every Center user -- will have to stop stretching the meaning of 'community' use of the building beyond any meaning ever intended by the University."

The Marvin Center Building Use Policy says the building is for the benefit of the "University community," defined as "students, faculty, staff, and alumni." Other users of the Center must be sponsored guests of the University or its members.

-more-

Mr. Smith noted, however, that "the act of removing uninvited, casual transients... is a delicate task for Center staff and Security personnel. In many instances, observers are quick to charge 'repression.'" He added:

"On some occasions, when students see such a person asked to leave the building, they will come forward to claim him as their personal guest, sometimes even while asking him, aside, 'What's your name?' I have seen this situation occur at various times in both the Center and the dormitories, most recently in the Center. Incidents with University members are potential nearly every time a casual visitor is asked for his identity.

"The point is that those of us who ask to be protected must be aware that we can only be protected if we follow common sense in safety matters. Those who were here two years ago will recall the objections raised by some Thurston residents when bars were installed on a handful of ground-level windows, to make sure that the people who were being assisted by residents in climbing in through the windows had to identify themselves at the front door. The moment the bars were in, charges of 'political repression' were made on campus.

"Similarly, this weekend, the University received protests from two residents of a floor of Thurston Hall, requesting the removal of the extra guard who remains assigned there as a security measure in connection with last week's incidents. Neither this reaction nor the reaction to the bars meet, in my opinion, the requirements of common sense.

"Clearly, if we want greater real security, we must recognize that the community, in the sense of uninvited, unknown transients, is not intended to have the privilege of using the Center or the other facilities which make up the University. In my opinion, the only community which can be served with better safety in the facilities is that composed of the University members themselves, together with their personal, identified real guests, authorized guest organizations, and visitors with a University-related purpose.

"Along with any tighter security desired must come some added limitations. For example, entry into Rice Hall on the weekends requires signing in, in front of a guard. A degree of personal freedom is exchanged for a measure of security. HEW secretary Elliott Richardson stated the problem clearly in an article in last Sunday's Post. He said: 'Choice is a basic reality, and for us it is doubly difficult and saddening because whatever we have to give up is not something bad or trivial, but something that is only somewhat less important, if that, than what we have selected to do.'

"If we are to enjoy improved security, we all need to work for better acceptance and understanding of such matters as entrance identification and spot checking. Once the larger casual community is in the building, it is very difficult to sort out the appropriate user from the inappropriate one. This larger community can just as readily include the potential criminal, as well as the harmless visitor.

"In summary, I believe that the stretching applied by some members of the University to the concept of a building-user community broader than George Washington's members and their real guests is incompatible with maximum security. I believe further that a lapse of common sense safety-practices on the part of any individual George Washington member can break the tightest security system and bring injury not only to the individual member himself, but to any other legitimate user of the University's facilities. We all need to work together to keep the community of the University alert to these two matters basic to better security in the Center and all other campus facilities."

HEARINGS HELD ON ACTIVITIES BUILDING--- Student members of the Ad Hoc Committee on the Activities Building are holding three open hearings for students in an effort to determine student feelings about the kinds of programs and activities desired in the new facility. The last of the three meetings will be held Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Thurston Lounge. Student members of the committee are Dan Kiernan and Jerry Nadler.

GEIGLEIN ON LEAVE--- At the request of the State Department, Harry W. Geiglein, Director of GW's Safety and Security Office,has been on a 90-day-leave of absence since Feb. 1 to help set up a security program for the government officials of Morocco. Prior to coming to GW in 1969, Mr. Geiglein was the Agent in Charge of the Washington field office of the U.S. Secret Service.

UNIVERSITY CLUB OPEN TO STAFF--- The Board of Directors of the University Club has unanimously voted to extend Club membership to all members of the University staff. Anyone interested in applying for membership should submit an application form, along with a note from a sponsoring Club member, to the Club Office. Application forms can be obtained in the Office or by phoning extension 6610. The usual initiation fee is waived for staff. Annual dues are $30.00. Dues will be prorated for the balance of the 1971-72 year.

JUDGE HUGHES RECEIVES ALUMNI SERVICE AWARD--- U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who administered the presidential oath of office to Lyndon Johnson after the assassination in 1963, received the University's Alumni Service Award in a special ceremony in Dallas, Tex. on Feb. 19. President Elliott made the presentation for GW's General Alumni Association in recognition of her outstanding service to the University. Judge Hughes received her law degree from GW 50 years ago, in 1922. In 1937, she received GW's Alumni Achievement Award in recognition of her professional accomplishments. President Elliott also visited with alumni groups in Houston, Tex., and Atlanta, Ga.

WINTER COMMENCEMENT--- Three honorary degrees and three alumni achievement awards were presented at commencement exercises on Feb. 21. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., of North Carolina, who delivered the convocation address, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He is chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and has served in the Senate since 1954...Dr. Marshall Nirenberg, Nobel laureate in medicine and chief of the Laboratory of Biochemical Genetics, National Institutes of Health, was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Science...Harold Wheeler, pioneer in the field of radio engineering and chief scientist in the Hazeltine Corporation's Research Laboratories, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science. He received the Bachelor of Science degree in physics from GW in 1925.

Alumni achievement awards were given to Judge Harry Lee Carrico, Justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia; Dr. Mildred Sandison Fenner, editor of Today's Education: The Journal of the National Education Association; and Dr. Mark Hummer Lepper, Dean of the new Rush Medical College (a medical care system for the underprivileged in Chicago), which is operated in conjunction with Presbyterian St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago.

Some 920 graduates received their degrees during commencement exercises.

"GEORGE CALLING"--- Students, administration, faculty and alumni are invited to take part in the University's fifth annual telethon, which is designed to solicit pledges for the 1971-72 annual fund. From March 6-30, the Telethon will begin at 6 p.m. with a light supper and will continue through 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday in rooms 413 and 414 of the Marvin Center. Volunteers may contact Fran Madrid in the Development Office at 6415.

TALENT SOUGHT FOR "FACULTY FOLLIES"--- All faculty and administration members who are willing to contribute their talents to the second annual "Faculty Follies," but who have not been personally contacted, are asked to call Mark Olshaker at 965-1491 or Janet Hardy at 6555.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, March 6, 1972

LISNER ANNIVERSARY CONCERT FRIDAY--- The GW Orchestra will present a concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Lisner Auditorium in observance of the facility's 25th anniversity as a center for performing arts. Drama and dance salutes are scheduled for April.

TWO ARE CONGRESSIONAL FELLOWS--- A GW alumna and a GW graduate student are currently serving as Congressional Fellows. Sally Earle, who received her M.A. in Government in 1966, is serving as a legislative assistant to Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan. Robert Graulich, who is completing his Master's degree in International Business Administration, is a staff assistant to Rep. F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts.

STUDENT GETS GODDARD AWARD--- Whitney V. Myers, a graduate student at GW, has been named to receive the $2,000 Goddard Space Science Engineering Scholarship. The award is granted annually for the purpose of "stimulating interest by talented students in research and exploration of outer space."

VOLUNTEER COUNCIL FORMED--- The Volunteer Services Council has been formed to serve as a clearing house for campus volunteer action efforts. It is composed of the following groups--- Project Share, Serve, Eco-Action, Circle K, St. Elizabeth's Projects, Student Housing Information Center, Rapid-Rescue, and a Boy Scout troop project. Richard Mihlrad is chairman of the new council, and he may be contacted at extension 7388.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, March 13, 1972

OPEN HOUSE SCHEDULED--- The University community is invited to attend an open house with President Elliott on Tuesday from 4 to 6 p.m. near the information desk area on the ground floor of the Marvin Center. Refreshments will be served.

HEALTH STAFF SEMINAR--- GW is offering a new program entitled Health Staff Seminar for professional federal staff members in the field of health. The program comes under GW's Institute for Educational Leadership, headed by Dr. Norman Drachler. The Health Staff Seminar, funded through a two-year grant of $235,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, is under the direction of Judith K. Miller, formerly Special Assistant to the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Legislation at HEW. The Seminar provides opportunities to explore new concepts, to examine in detail health practices and problems, and to improve communications between federal staff members and health practitioners.

"GW IMPACT SPONSOR PROGRAM" CREATED--- New students will become familiar with GW, its students, and the community through a new program directed by the Student Activities Office in cooperation with student volunteers. The program will supplement the efforts of the "5-to-1" program involving students, staff and faculty with new students. Each Impact Sponsor (student volunteer) will be responsible for about 20 new students. Information and applications to serve as Impact Sponsors may be picked up at the Student Activities Office in Room 427 of the Marvin Center.

TELETHON GOING WELL--- Pledges to GW's Annual Fund were made for $17,700 in the first of six nights during telethons held at GW and in New York. The GW telethon will continue through March 30. Those interested in helping with the campaign should contact Mrs. Madrid, 6415.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, March 20, 1972

DANZANSKY ELECTED TO BOARD OF TRUSTEES--- Joseph B. Danzansky, president of Giant Food, Inc., has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of The George Washington University.

Danzansky will serve as an "Alumni Trustee," having been recommended by the Governing Board of the University's General Alumni Association. He holds two earned degrees from GW, the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Laws. He was honored with the University's Alumni Achievement Award in 1969. Both of his sons are GW graduates.

Danzansky served as president of the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade in 1971. He was general chairman of the United Givers Fund campaigns in 1969 and 1970. He is chairman of the Mayor's Economic Development Committee and is active in a number of community organizations. The Washingtonian magazine lists him among the 10 "Washingtonians of 1971" for his many community services, for his efforts "to pull the metropolitan area together," and for leading the industry "toward a new concern for the consumer."

TRUSTEES URGE DEPARTMENTS, SCHOOLS, COLLEGES TO IMPLEMENT EXISTING CHANNELS FOR STUDENT INPUT--- At its March meeting last Thursday, the Board of Trustees unanimously approved the following motion: "It is the sense of the Board of Trustees that the various departments, schools, and colleges of The George Washington University should undertake to implement the existing channels for student input by departmental, school, and college councils and committees as fully and as expeditiously as possible."

The motion was passed to place the weight of the Board of Trustees behind efforts by the administration, colleges, schools, and departments to provide maximum opportunities for student input in university decision-making. (continued next page)

The motion followed a discussion of the status of the 15 recommendations made by the Commission on Governance, a presidentially appointed body of students, faculty, alumni, and trustees that examined responsibility, authority and decision-making at GW and issued a formal report last fall.

One of the Commission's recommendations urged that further efforts be made "to establish and to utilize, imaginatively and aggressively, the Departmental Advisory Committees and the School or College Advisory Councils." This recommendation has received serious and lengthy consideration from various divisions of the University, including the Committee on Student Affairs of the Board. The Committee, in its report to the Board last week, reviewed the advisory groups and concluded that "with only a few exceptions there exist clearly defined means for student participation in academic policy formulation, both in the colleges and in their departments."

The Committee further noted that these means for participation are "in widespread use," that "most of the participation is advisory in nature, rather than by policy-determining vote," and that "the structure for this kind of participation is strong."

The Committee said that "the most substantial academic involvement for students, as for faculty, rests appropriately at the departmental level, rather than with the school or college."

The Committee strongly urged those departments and schools whose advisory councils are not yet functioning "to proceed with their implementation."

RETIREMENT BENEFITS CHANGED--- The Board of Trustees voted in its meeting Thursday to amend the supplementary benefits section of the TIAA-CREF program so that benefits will now be available to full-time employees at an earlier retirement age. That age was moved by the action back to 60 years old.

MARVIN CENTER VACATION SCHEDULE--- March 25: Day only. Game room will open at noon. All services close at 7 p.m. Building will remain open to 11:30 p.m. for club activities. March 26: Closed.

March 27-30: Day only; same schedule as March 25. March 31, April 1 & 2: Closed. April 3: Normal hours, except game room opens at noon. April 4: Normal hours.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder and Roger Morris, Editors

Monday, April 10, 1972

CLARIFICATION OF CHANGE IN RETIREMENT BENEFITS--- In its March meeting, the Board of Trustees amended the University's retirement policy for the benefit of those GW employees who were participants in GW's retirement program prior to the inception of TIAA-CREF in 1945. The amendment enables such an employee to collect supplementary benefits from the earlier program at the age of 60, should he choose to retire at that age. TIAA-CREF benefits are in no way affected by the Board's action. An earlier announcement in the March 20 Monday Report was incorrect.

GW ANNOUNCES MEDICAL PROGRAM WITH NAVY--- Navy enlisted men who train as hospital corpsmen will soon be able to earn college degrees in the allied health sciences from GW.

Beginning in May, a curriculum leading to an Associate in Science degree in X-Ray technology will be offered jointly through the University and Navy hospitals at Bethesda, Md., San Diego, Calif., and Portsmouth, Va. This is the first of some 30 Associate and Bachelor's-level degree programs in medical technical specialities being considered under an agreement signed between GW and the Navy.

The 61-semester-hour, X-ray technology program includes six months of academic work and six months of clinical experience in the specialty, as well as 12 semester hours of courses in communications, social studies, and the humanities. A graduate of that program could apply his two-year associate degree toward a four-year bachelor's degree.

The Navy funds the program, GW's School of Medicine plans the curriculum and provides an accredited faculty and the University's College of General Studies administers the courses.

TUPPER MEMORIAL LECTURE ANNOUNCED--- "The Invulnerability of Evil," a lecture on Shakespeare's writings, will be the subject of the 8th annual Fred S. Tupper Memorial Lecture on Friday in Corcoran Hall, 725-21st Street, N.W. at 8:30 p.m. Clifford Leech, a distinguished scholar from the University of Toronto, will be the lecturer. The late Fred S. Tupper was an English professor at GW for more than 20 years and a well-known Shakespearean scholar. He died in 1963.

-more-

OPEN HOUSE WITH THE PRESIDENT--- There will be an open house with President Elliott from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday on the ground floor of the Marvin Center. Refreshments will be served.

PERFORMANCES MARK LISNER'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY--- William Shakespeare's classic, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," will be presented by the Speech and Drama Department on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and also on Saturday at 2 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. The production, being given in observance of the 25th anniversary of Lisner Auditorium, is under the direction of Dr. Sydney James, Director of University Theatre. Tickets are $2.50 for the general public and $1.00 for students with ID.

LAW STUDENT CHOSEN FOR EDUCATIONAL EXCHANGE PROGRAM--- Howard M. Zimmerman, a third-year GW law student who will be graduated in June, 1972, will receive an educational exchange grant to serve as a junior lecturer for the Faculty of Law, University of Aix, France. The grant is being made under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961, also known as the Fulbright-Hays Act.

RESEARCH HONORED--- Wallace H. Jensen, M.D., Chairman and Professor, Department of Medicine, recently received the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Medical Achievement Award for his "outstanding contribution in the research of Sickle Cell Anemia." The award was presented last week by the Philadelphia Chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in cooperation with the SCLC National Office in Atlanta, Ga.

FACULTY PHYSICALS--- All faculty members who have not obtained the results of this year's annual physical should call Dr. Richard Castell, weekdays from 1 to 5, at 6829.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Monday, April 17, 1972

NEW SERVICE-LEARNING PROGRAM--- Individualized "Service-Learning" courses will be available to some 100 George Washington University juniors and seniors in all of GW's undergraduate schools and colleges, beginning with the Fall Semester.

Another 400 undergraduates will be accepted into expanded courses in "Experimental Humanities."

Both programs come under GW's Office of Program Development, and both provide supervised work and field experiences that will take students into the inner city and into the inner workings of government, not only to observe, but to work on, and make a contribution to the resolution of real problems.

In the Service-Learning Program, a student may earn from three to 15 hours of academic credit for a one-semester course. In Experimental Humanities, the number of course hours is specified for each course. Toward a degree, Columbian College will accept a maximum of 15 hours of SLP and 21 hours of any combination of SLP and Experimental Humanities.

The Service-Learning Program has grown out of the experience of two years with courses in Experimental Humanities combining work and study. It adds to those courses new flexibility. It responds to the individual differences and needs of students. It is sponsored by a broader range of academic disciplines. And it provides new kinds of work assignments, whether in the local or federal governments or with community groups or agencies.

Through Service-Learning, a student, regardless of his major, can become a full partner in the development of an individualized course, a course which must involve "genuine service and genuine learning conjointly," so that the Program serves the student's educational goals as well as "the long-term joint interests of selected off-campus groups and agencies and of the University." (continued next page)

-more-

Participation in Service-Learning requires an agreement-- among the individual student, the Service-Learning Program, and a particular community group, research organization, or government agency. The agreement defines the "course" for the semester and the credit to be received by the individual student.

The Service-Learning Program next fall will be administered by a Council consisting of representatives from the Sociology and Political Science Departments and the Experimental Humanities Program, with courses and placements offered by the individual departments and by the Experimental Humanities Program.

All three academic sponsors agree that Service-Learning demands "close supervision by the faculty," with "specified limits" on the number of students admitted.

The departments of Sociology and Political Science specify that no more than six hours of Service-Learning can count toward a major in those fields.

Dr. Clarence Mondale, Director of the Office of Program Development, said that the Service-Learning Program and the Experimental Humanities courses are designed "to relate classroom instruction more closely to the problems of contemporary life, and to make the resources of the University more useful to the surrounding metropolitan community." But above all, he said, "they are designed to enhance the education of the individual student."

The Program allows students to test "book-knowledge" against their first-hand experience in the field. Pre-professional students have a chance to test their commitment to their potential professions. Seminars and student projects develop analytical frameworks appropriate to the work experience.

During the past two years, GW students enrolled in experimental courses have worked in varied assignments: aide for Neighborhood Legal Services, supervisor of a hospital's evening volunteer staff, community organizer in a poverty program, director of out-of-school education and recreation programs for D.C.'s Juvenile Delinquency Control unit, research assistant for an urban planning unit, and staff member on the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Students also have served in the D.C. Public Schools, the Health and Welfare Council, Juvenile Court, Boys Clubs, the Occupational Training Center, the GW Community Health Clinic, citizen environmental agencies, community development organizations, D.C. Social Services, consumer protection groups, and Spanish community groups.

Eighty per cent of all the agencies involved reported that the students made "solid contributions." One student even landed a grant in support of his agency's program.

In addition to the opportunity to participate in GW's new Service-Learning Program, juniors and seniors also may elect "Supervised Work-Study courses" offered in Experimental Humanities. These courses will emphasize field-study projects appropriate to the arts and to the humanities. Next fall, for example, students in Experimental Humanities 101 will undertake an oral history project, whereby they will initiate recorded interviews as a technique for studying ethnic communities, recent political campaigns, family histories, the history of technology, and the status of women. Faculty from Anthropology, History and American Studies will be involved in the project.

The Experimental Humanities section of the Service-Learning Program (SLP - Humanities 150), replaces work-study courses previously listed as Experimental Humanities 101-102. In SLP - Humanities 150, work-study assignments will be divided under four sections: Legal Services, Health Care Institutions and Programs, Education, and Drug Abuse Education.

Among other courses in Experimental Humanities are two new ones developed primarily for freshmen, but open to all students:

One -- The Computer and Society: the Search for New Alternatives (Fall 1972, three credit hours) -- will be team-taught by professors of Engineering, Chemistry, and Political Science. It will include orientation to computer language and the computer, small-group study of policy issues related to new computer technologies, and a continuing examination of ethical and philosophical issues implicit in the new interdependencies of man and machine. Class visitors and field visits will orient students to major Washington users of the computer and to important new applications of computer technology.

The other -- Washington Culture and Politics (Spring 1973, three credit hours)-- will introduce students to field-study of the Washington area, and to GW faculty interested in various kinds of urban studies. The freshman-level student completing the course will have a better realization of what he wants to do with Washington as an educational resource during his remaining three years at GW.

Both courses combine traditional and field study. Both will utilize teams of faculty members from throughout the university, community leaders, and practitioners in appropriate professions.

Existing courses in Experimental Humanities include:

-- Environmental Issues (Spring 1973, three credit hours). This course is based on field studies and seminars with authorities from such areas as pollution and human health (air and water pollution, pesticides, recycling, epidemiology, drugs); population problems; economic and environmental imperatives and the protection of the public interest; and life styles, new values, and the efficacy of different kinds of personal remedial action.

-- The Individual and the City (six credit hours), a year-long course. During the first semester, there are special readings and related group discussions with specialists from the faculty, from government, and from industry. Topics include the effect of different urban environments on the attitudes and actions of people; the problems faced by minorities; and the characteristics of urban government and justice. Areas of field-study include Washington's first totally planned suburb, the inner city, and historic Georgetown. In the second semester, each student identifies one or two areas of urban life in which he is deeply interested; seeks out, with faculty help, a municipal agency or community organization active in that area; and then spends six to eight hours each week in field involvement with that agency.

-- Urban Ecology Workshop (Summer 1972, four credit hours). It explores the legal, scientific, political, and ethical aspects of specific environmental issues in the Washington area, and is offered jointly by the Office of Program Development and the Department of Education.

Offered for the first time this summer will be a special institute on the problems of The Washington Spanish-American Community (three credit hours). This institute will examine the populous, inner-city, Spanish-speaking community as a means of developing policy recommendations for the improvement of social services to that systematically neglected group.

For the student who qualifies, there is a special climax to all of the above--an annual Conference on Policy Studies and the Humanities, which deals with a "public policy" issue. In the spring of 1973, the topic will be related to urban health care, with special attention to drug abuse and control. Students from the liberal arts, the sciences, and the professions will divide into task forces, study selected aspects of the policy issue, and develop recommendations to be addressed to a panel of individuals actually making policy decisions in the area of concern. The student will earn from six to 15 hours of academic credit.

Built into the total program is a major evaluation component, aimed at defining objectives, devising observation and measurement strategies, collecting and analyzing information, and reporting results.

The evaluators are located in an independent agency, the Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area.

The programs are funded by grants from the Richard King Mellon Charitable Trusts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For Enrollment Information for Fall 1972:

1. Experimental Humanities 101 -- Seminar in Oral History (juniors and seniors), 6 credits. Students will undertake an oral history project, whereby they will initiate recorded interviews as means for studying ethnic communities, recent political campaigns, family histories, the history of technology, and the status of women. Contact: Mr. French, Monroe 409, telephone 676-7565.

2. The Computer and Society: A Search for New Alternatives (for all students), 3 credits. The course includes small-group study of policy issues related to new computer technologies, and a continuing examination of ethical and philosophical issues implicit in the new interdependencies of man and machine, as well as orientation to new applications of computer technology. Contact: Mr. Mondale, Monroe 409, telephone 676-7565; or Mr. Bock, Tompkins 310, telephone 676-6919; or Mr. Darcy, Building C 210, telephone 676-6589; or Mr. Schmidt, Corcoran 311, telephone 676-6719.

3. SLP-Experimental Humanities 150 (juniors and seniors), a work-study course previously listed as Experimental Humanities 101-102, 6 credits. Work assignments will be made through one of the four sections. For information, contact one of the section leaders:

a. Legal Services -- Mr. Sirulnik, Monroe 409, telephone 676-7565.

b. Health Care Institutions and Programs -- Miss Cohen or Miss Benbasset, Monroe 409, telephone 676-7565.

c. Education -- Mrs. Nashman, Building C, Room 500, telephone 676-6166.

d. Drug Abuse Education -- Mr. Edwards or Mr. Cannady, Monroe 409, telephone 676-7565.

4. SLP-Political Science 150 (juniors and seniors), with three courses offered: Placements in Urban Government, six credits; Placements in Campaign Organizations, six credits; or Individual Research (specialized research projects ar anged between the student and sponsor), three or six credits. Contact: Mr. Burks, Building C 626, telephone 676-6662.

5. SLP-Sociology 150 (juniors and seniors), 15 credits. All students will be placed in agencies, groups, organizations, etc., that constitute, conceptually, a system (e.g., Criminal Justice, Military-Industrial, Educational, Legislative, etc.) and/or problems (e.g. Child Welfare, Ecology, Employment, Distribution of Government Subsidies, etc.). Commitments to particular placements for Fall '72 have not yet been made. Contact: Mr. Tropea, Building D 205, telephone 676-6897.

DANCE CONCERT--- GW's dance company will present its annual spring concert at the Marvin Theatre Wednesday through Saturday, April 19-22, at 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday, April 23, at 2:30 p.m. General admission is $2.00; students with I.D. and faculty, $1.00.

J PHOTOS EXHIBITED--- Photos taken by journalism students, under the direction of Mr. Lou Mazzatenta of the National Geographic magazine, are being exhibited on the third floor of Stewart Hall.

GW PUBLICATIONS SOLICITED--- All GW departments are asked to deposit in the Special Collections Department of the library two copies of every report, announcement, or publication of any type, in print or near-print. This collection serves as a historical depository and as a source of information and means of identifying publication requests received by the University.

"LISNER HIGHLIGHTS" is an exhibit of programs, posters, and flyers of events held at Lisner Auditorium over the past 25 years. The display, which is being shown in observance of Lisner's 25th anniversary, is located in the first floor lobby of Lisner. The exhibit will run through April 27.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Monday, April 24, 1972

BACON HEADS SUMMER JOB PROGRAM--- Curtis T. Bacon, Director of Personnel Services, is chairman of the D. C. area's Summer Jobs for Needy Youth Program. The five-week campaign is sponsored by the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade and the National Alliance of Businessmen. The need is for 12,000 job pledges from the private sector for school-age youths (ages 16-21) who must have summer income in order to return to school or who come from poverty-level income families. The campaign will end May 19.

SEAS SPONSORS SYMPOSIUM--- The questions as to why some ships split in two, aircraft wings fall off in flight, and bridges and buildings collapse will be among the subjects discussed by more than 300 scientists and engineers at the International Symposium on Fracture and Fatigue at GW on May 3-5. SEAS Dean Harold Liebowitz and Professor A. M. Freudenthal, chairman of the Department of Civil, Mechanical and Environmental Engineering, are co-chairmen of the Symposium.

GW GRADUATE TO JOIN FACULTY--- Teresa Moran Schwartz, attorney adviser to Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones at the Federal Trade Commission, has been appointed an Associate Professor of Law at George Washington University, succeeding Jerome Barron, who will become dean of the law school at Syracuse University.

Mrs. Schwartz received the J.D. degree with highest honors from GW's law school a year ago. Her A.B. degree is from Stanford. Her husband is also an attorney and GW alumnus.

GRADUATE STUDENT RECEIVES RESEARCH GRANT--- Harold L. Miller, a graduate student in History, has been awarded a Fulbright-Hays Doctoral Dissertation Research grant. In September, he will go to Kyoto, Japan, where he will research institutional change in China during the Ch'ing period, 1680-1690.

-more-

PRESIDENT TESTIFIES BEFORE DISTRICT COMMITTEE--- In testimony supporting Congressional legislation to provide financial distress funds for the GW medical school and the Georgetown medical and dental schools, GW President Lloyd H. Elliott said that the University "is hard pressed to make ends meet and there are no other sources for university funding for Medical School use." He added:

"We appeal to you as a private Medical or Dental School appeals to a state legislature for necessary support. Our situation is not unique-- many states are now supporting private Medical and Dental schools as well as state schools."

The testimony before the House of Representatives' D.C. Subcommittee supports passage of H.R. 13713 and H.R. 13790, which would extend for three years the District of Columbia Medical and Dental Manpower Act of 1970. The new bills would continue Congressional authorization for HEW to give GW and Georgetown up to $5,000 for each full-time medical student and up to $3,000 for each full-time dental student. The actual amounts would be based upon the funds needed to meet the operational deficits of these Schools.

Dr. Seymour Alpert, GW Vice President for Development, and the Rev. T. Byron Collins, S.J., Assistant to the President at Georgetown, have stated:

"Without the funds authorized by this legislation these Schools will be in financial jeopardy." They noted that there are 14 area hospitals directly associated with the staffs and programs of these Medical and Dental Schools and that there are more than 10,000 graduates of these schools in practice in the United States.

President Elliott in his testimony listed several examples of the involvement of the GW Medical Center in the District of Columbia and emphasized that "our growing involvement is not that of education at the expense of the community nor service to the community at the expense of education." He concluded:

"The financial support in this Bill is essential, and the continuation of our ability to offer medical service to the Washington community is dependent upon the viability of our School of Medicine."

The bill was favorably reported by the Subcommittee and is expected to be acted upon soon.

TV PROGRAM SCHEDULED--- The role that archaeological research plays in learning about life in a 17th century Maryland settlement will be the topic for discussion on Sunday, April 30 at 2:30 p.m. on WRC-TV. Toni Lee, a graduate student in American Studies, will join Cary Carson and Gary Stone of the St. Mary's City Commission in the discussion.

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Monday, May 1, 1972

STEERING COMMITTEE CHOSEN FOR PROPOSED ASSEMBLY--- President Elliott has appointed a steering committee for the proposed All-University Assembly recommended by the Commission on Governance in its report. The steering committee has been asked to "translate an acceptable concept (the All-University Assembly) into a workable proposal." The President has asked for a preliminary report from the committee before the start of the spring semester of 1973. Professor David B. Weaver will serve as chairman for the committee. Other members are: (faculty) Associate Professors A. E. Claeyssens, Jr., William B. Griffith, and Norman C. Kramer; Professors Hugh L. LeBlanc and Reuben E. Wood; and Assistant Professor Margaret W. Montzka; (administration) Dean Burton M. Sapin and Vice President William P. Smith, Jr.; (student body) Shakespeare L. Brissett, Joseph A. DeRiggi, Michael Goergen, Peter J. Kurshan, and Manning G. Warren; (alumni) Arnold G. R. Bellefontaine, Lyn H. Clark, J. Dallas Shirley, and E. A. Wareham, III. The President expects to appoint two additional students and one administrator to the committee at a later date.

GW DOCTORS CITED--- The March, 1972 issue of Town and Country listed two GW physicians in its article, "Exclusive Report: Where to Find the Best Medical Services in the Country." The list contains a cross section of experts in some of the specialized fields of modern medicine. Those cited are Dr. Brian Blades, Professor, the Department of Surgery, for lung cancer; and Dr. Robert H. Barter, Professor, the Department of OB-GYN, for obstetrics and gynecology.

NEW SLAVIC MAJOR TO BE OFFERED--- The Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures will introduce a new field-of-study major in Russian Literature and Culture (in translation) this fall. The program is designed for students interested primarily in Russian literature, intellectual history, and the development of culture. New courses to be offered in English in the new major are Introduction to Russian Civilization and the writings of Vladimir Nabokov.

-more-

MEDICAL INSURANCE COMMITTEE REPORTS--- A committee appointed by President Elliott a year ago after a sharp increase in Blue Cross/Blue Shield rates has concluded that "at the present time no significant advantage would be gained by changing the basic arrangements now existing with Group Hospitalization, Inc., and Medical Service of the District of Columbia (Blue Cross/Blue Shield).

The University Committee on Hospitalization and Medical Insurance was chaired by Charles B. Nutting, Professor of Law. Other members of the committee were: Edwin J. B. Lewis (Vice Chairman), Professor of Accounting; Leroy O. Payton, Assistant Administrator, Plant Services; Charles R. Mann, Associate Professor of Statistics; Susan Hart, Sponsored Research Supervisor; and William R. Felts, Jr., Associate Professor of Medicine.

With the assistance of a professional consultant, the Committee held extensive discussions with officials of Group Hospitalization, Inc., and concluded that "the rates are justified in view of rising costs and greater utilization of services and that the University is in a relatively favorable position as compared to similar groups."

The Committee also investigated the possibility of arranging for a commercial campany to take over the program. In its report the Committee stated: "We see no indication that this can be done unless the whole health program is revised and even then we are doubtful that any real advantage would result."

The Committee recommends the following:

--The University bear part of the cost of the existing program;

--Further investigation be conducted as to the possibility and desirability of splitting the group as options become available commensurate with the options selected;

--The University undertake an examination by auditors of the reports filed by the carrier with the Department of Insurance of the District of Columbia;

--Consideration be given to making clearly understood arrangements for temporary and emergency care for University employees either through the student health service or some other appropriate organization within the University; and

--When legislation regarding health care insurance applicable to University employees is enacted by the Congress, the entire matter be reexamined.

The recommendations will be given full consideration.

HERTZ PLAN AVAILABLE--- Faculty and staff may obtain a "cash only" card that permits them to rent Hertz cars at a discount, with no deposit privileges. Discounts are 20 per cent in the United States and Canada, 10 per cent internationally on automobiles, and 10 per cent on trucks. To take advantage of the plan, contact Ms. Krueger at the Procurement and Supply Office, 6865.

-more-

PARKING RATES SET--- New parking rates will go into effect on July 1, 1972, on the recommendation of the University Parking Committee which is made up of students, faculty, and staff representatives. The new rates are necessary in order to live within the University's Parking Policy that the University "charge a fee for parking to cover its costs of operation and a return on its investment" from its parking facilities.

The new parking rates are as follows:

A. UNIVERSITY & MEDICAL CENTER STAFF:	$240 per year $20 per month
B. STUDENTS:	Daily - $1.00 per parking period Overtime - $1.00 per parking period Overnight - $32.00 per month
C. GUESTS, VISITORS AND ALUMNI: (Center Garage & New Parking Garage)	$0.65 per hour $0.65 per each additional hour $2.50 maximum $2.75 maximum after 12 hours $1.25 after 5:00 PM
D. PART-TIME FACULTY AND GRADUATE TEACHING FELLOWS:	$48.00 per semester $ 1.50 daily day rate $ 1.00 evening rate (after 5:00 PM)
E. MOTORCYCLES:	$ 5.00 per semester

The Parking Committee also recommended the reestablishment of overnight parking privileges for resident students. This policy will become effective Sept. 1, 1972 when additional space is made available.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Monday, May 8, 1972

MAJOR CGS APPOINTMENTS--- Charles M. Chambers, former Director of Educational Planning for University Associates, Inc., in Washington, has been appointed Associate Dean for Long Range Planning and Program Development in the College of General Studies. Ruth Osborn, Director of Continuing Education for Women, has been named Assistant Dean of the College of General Studies. She also will continue as Director of Continuing Education for Women. Both appointments are effective July 1.

GW STUDENTS ELECTED TO PHI BETA KAPPA--- Twenty-five students were elected to the GW chapter of Phi Beta Kappa this semester. The students and their major fields are: Brian H. Appleton, Louisa Beyer, Joan E. Vogel, Anthropology; Pamela J. Cohen, Art History; Robert J. Solomon, American Studies; Michael P. Bloom, Drama; Robert C. Wolf, Economics; Mariam G. Eisenstadt, Education; Deborah A. Crim, Judith K. Ludwig, Elizabeth G. McPoland, English Literature; Jane H. Pearl, English (Education); Linda K. Paffel, Painting; Howard D. Berger, Ann Epstein, Richard Marmaro, Mark R. Vance, History; Linda S. Brown, Latin; Susan M. Buckingham, Philosophy; Letitia C. Jew, Biology; Iris S. Diamond, Steven M. Yarnell, Political Science; Shelley G. Kessler, Psychology; and Hector J. Hidalgo, Gene R. Seligson, Zoology.

LAW ALUMNI HOLD REUNION--- GW's Law Association will hold a Diamond Jubilee-50th Reunion for its alumni on Friday, May 12, at the law school.

The celebration is being planned to honor David Pelton Moore, J.D. 1897, a retired patent attorney and inventor. He will receive a diamond pin on this 75th anniversary of his graduation.

The class of 1922 also will hold its 50th reunion. Those attending the festivities will include former Congressman Brooks Hays and Judge Sarah Hughes, U.S. District Court, Dallas, Tex., who administered the oath of office to Lyndon Johnson following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

GW alumni who were graduated from the law school before 1922 also will be honored.

CLUB STAYS OPEN FOR GRADUATION--- The University Club will be open for graduating seniors and their parents on Sunday, May 14, on a cash basis. Brunch ($2.50 for adults, $1.25 for children under 12) will be served from 11 to 1:30 p.m., and dinner from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Monday, May 22, 1972

CHARLES E. PHILLIPS ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF GW'S BOARD OF TRUSTEES--- Charles E. Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Equitable Life Insurance Company, Washington, D.C., has been elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees effective July 1.

Mr. Phillips will succeed E. K. Morris, who is retiring and will become Chairman Emeritus.

Other new officers of the Board include: Vice Chairman-- Everett H. Bellows, Vice President of the Olin Corp., Washington, D.C.; and Assistant Secretary-- Thaddeus A. Lindner, president of Colonial Parking, Inc., Washington, D.C. James M. Mitchell, Director of the Advanced Study Program for the Brookings Institution, was re-elected as Secretary.

The newly elected Board Chairman, Charles E. Phillips, currently serves as Vice Chairman of the Board and as Chairman of its Committee on Financial Affairs. He has been a GW Trustee since 1962. An alumnus of George Washington, he received his LL.B. and LL.M. degrees from the law school in 1925 and 1926. In the late 1960's he served as general chairman of the successful Law Library Building Fund Campaign.

Mr. Phillips joined the staff of Equitable Life Insurance Company in 1922 and was its president from 1948 to 1968.

He is a member of the executive committee of the American Life Convention and President of the Clark-Winchcole Foundation. He is a past President of the Life Insurers Conference and a former Director of the Life Insurance Association of America.

Mr. Phillips is also a Director and member of the executive committee of the National Savings and Trust Company of Washington, D.C.; a Director of the American Federal Savings and Loan Association; a Trustee of the Federal City Council of Washington; and a Director of the Benjamin Franklin Foundation of West Berlin, Germany. (continued)

-more-

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Phillips is a past President of the Metropolitan Washington Board of Trade; of the Kiwanis Club of Washington; of the Bradley Boulevard Citizens Association; and of the United Givers Fund for the National Capital Area, as well as having served as General Campaign Chairman for U.G.F. He is a Director of the D.C. Society for Crippled CHildren and the Metropolitan Police Boys Club. He is on the finance committee of the Washington Home for Incurables.

Mr. Phillips is a native of Montgomery County, a graduate of Central High School in Washington, and a resident of Bethesda, Md. His wife, Laura, is a charter member of the Phi Beta Kappa Chapter of George Washington, where she received her A.B. degree Cum Laude.

GW BOARD OF TRUSTEES ELECTS TWO NEW MEMBERS--- Leon Chatelain, Jr., Washington architect, and Dr. Sidney A. Levine, Melrose, Mass., physician, were elected to the GW Board of Trustees at its meeting last Thursday. Both are GW alumni.

Mr. Chatelain is a partner in the firm of Chatelain, Samperton, and Nolan. He has received numerous achitectural awards, including the Bell System Merit Award and the Conseil Superior Medal of France. Active in many civic organizations, he has been president of the Washington Board of Trade, the Washington Building Congress, the Kiwanis Club of Washington, the D.C. Society for Crippled Children, the Metropolitan Police Boys Club, and the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Mr. Chatelain was national president of the American Institute of Architects from 1956-58, and he is a Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters, the Royal Architects Institute of Canada, and the Construction Specifications Institute. He serves on Advisory Boards to Pennsylvania State University and the University of Virginia. He was a member of the President's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped and he serves as a Director of Trustee of 12 other organizations.

Dr. Levine, a heart specialist, was Chief of Medical Service at the Melrose, Mass., Hospital from 1954 to 1969, and he has been in private practice in Melrose since 1948. He is a Fellow of the World Health Organization and a former Vice President of the Massachusetts Heart Association. He has been an instructor at Boston City Hospital. He is an active member or the Advisory Council for Medical Affairs at George Washington.

Dr. Levine will serve as an "Alumni Trustee" at GW, having been recommended by the University's General Alumni Association.

CHARLES E. DIEHL NAMED GW VICE PRESIDENT AND TREASURER--- Charles E. Diehl will become Vice President and Treasurer of The George Washington University on July 1. He will succeed Henry W. Herzog, who is retiring after 41 years of service to the University. Mr. Herzog will be honored with the title, Vice President and Treasurer Emeritus, by action of the University's Board of Trustees. He will continue to serve the University as a special assistant to the President on a part-time basis.

As Vice President and Treasurer, Mr. Diehl will be responsible for the management of financial and business operations, the physical plant, acquisition of property, and supervision of new construction. He has been Assistant Vice President and Assistant Treasurer at George Washington since joining the University in January of 1970.
(continued)

That position will be assumed by Maurice K. Heartfield, currently an Assistant Treasurer and Director of Student Financial Aid at George Washington. In another administrative change, Frederick J. Naramore, GW Comptroller, was named a corporate officer of the University.

NEW DIRECTOR NAMED FOR GW'S INSTITUTE FOR SINO-SOVIET STUDIES--- Gaston J. Sigur will become the new director of the Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies on July 1. He succeeds Professor Franz H. Michael, who will retire from the administrative position but continue as Professor of International Affairs and Far Eastern History.

Mr. Sigur received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1957. His specialty is East Asian History with an emphasis on Japan.

Since 1956, he has held several administrative positions with the Asia Foundation, a private, publicly supported nonprofit American corporation established to promote Asian development. The Foundation has 14 offices in Asian countries. His positions with the Foundation have included Washington Representative; Deputy Director of Programs and also Acting Director of the Department of Review and Development for the San Francisco Home Office; and Representative for Japan and Afghanistan.

He was director of a Special Research Project at Sophia University in Tokyo, 1959-61, and Assistant Director of the International Center and Lecturer for the Department of Far East Languages and Literature at the University of Michigan, 1952-56.

AMENDMENT TO RETIREMENT POLICY--- In a memorandum to Deans on Jan. 27, 1972, Provost Bright stated the University's policy relative to the continuation in active service of faculty members who have reached retirement age: i.e., effective with the academic year 1972-73 faculty members beyond the age of 65 may be recommended for reappointment for a maximum period of one year on one-half time service and at half salary.

At its meeting on April 16, the Faculty Senate passed Resolution 70/13, which recommended that in special circumstances exceptions to this policy might be considered. The Senate resolution provides that in individual cases and upon the recommendation of the faculty of a department, supported by a showing of its program need, a faculty member over 65 may be recommended for reappointment for a maximum of one year in full-time service and one additional year in a half-time capacity. Resolution 70/13 has been accepted by the Provost and will constitute an amendment to the retirement policy stated in his memorandum of Jan. 27.

GW LAUNCHES HEALTH MAINTENANCE PLAN--- The George Washington University Health Plan for 5,000 prepaid subscribers within the District of Columbia was launched last Thursday in contract signing ceremonies at the District Building with GWUHP, D.C. Human Resources, and Blue Cross/Blue Shield officials participating.

Inauguration of the prepaid health maintenance plan is viewed by participants as a "partnership" among the District government, the University, and the area's largest health insurance company.

The GWUHP membership will include 2,000 Medicaid-eligible citizens of the District and 3,000 additional subscribers who may enroll through employee groups. (continued)

Outpatient services will be provided in the facilities of the Community Care Center of the University Clinic. The GWU Hospital and Children's Hospital will provide inpatient care for the GWU Health Plan. Children's Hospital is the major pediatric affiliate of the University Medical Center.

Primary care will be provided by the faculty members of the Division of General Medicine of GW's Department of Medicine. Specialty services will be provided by the faculty of the School of Medicine. Each primary physician heads a team of health professionals to include nurses, physicians' assistants, and student trainees. Teams are augmented by social workers, dietitians, and health care expeditors acting as advocates for the subscriber population.

The GWU Health Plan is governed by a corporation whose directors include University officials, providers of service, and consumer representatives elected from among the subscribers.

Inclusion of 40% Medicaid-eligible subscribers among the 5,000 target enrollment is consistent with pending federal legislation requiring health maintenance organizations receiving federal funds to include a substantial percentage of the medically underserved.

GW RECEIVES MAJOR RECOGNITION--- GW, through its Office of Public Relations, has been singled out as having "one of the two best Total Publications Programs in the field of higher education in the United States." The award will be presented in July by the primary national PR organization in higher education, the American College Public Relations Association. The award is based on a cross-section of GW publications created and administered by the PR office for such audiences as alumni, prospective students, and the campus community. All aspects of the publications were considered in the judging. Last year, ACPRA honored GW's Public Relations Office for having "one of the five best regional and national information programs in the nation." GW is believed to be the only institution to ever receive major awards in consecutive years for two major facets of the public relations operation-- publications programs and news and information programs.

GW FACULTY AMONG BEST PAID--- The following table is reproduced from the May 8, 1972, edition of The Chronicle of Higher Education:

The Country's 68 Best-Paid College and University Faculties

Following are the 68 non-medical institutions now paying faculty salaries and benefits totaling over $18,000 for nine months, as reported to the American Association of University Professors. Only institutions with 25 or more teachers are listed. See story below and tables on Pages 5 and 6.

CUNY—Grad Center	$28,492	CUNY—Richmond C	$20,773	SUNY at Stony Brook	$19,930	Amherst C	$19,257
CUNY—City C	23,900	CUNY—H H Lehman C	20,728	SUNY at Buffalo	19,914	Brown U	19,248
New Sch for Soc Res	23,724	AF Inst of Tech	20,727	U of Rochester	19,907	Westchester CC	19,173
Harvard U	23,424	Union Theol Sem	20,725	Duke U	19,854	CUNY—York C	19,151
Claremont U Center	23,385	U of Pennsylvania	20,685	SUNY at Binghamton	19,795	Princeton U	19,111
Cal Inst of Tech	23,172	SUNY—Fashion Inst of Tech	20,668	Cornell U	19,729	Rutgers St U	18,798
CUNY—Brooklyn C	22,883	Johns Hopkins U—Arts & Sci	20,527	CUNY—Hostos CC	19,690	Dartmouth C	18,590
CUNY—Queens C	22,602	Columbia U	20,497	Princeton Theol Sem	19,683	U of N Carolina—Chapel Hill	18,564
CUNY—Hunter C	22,499	CUNY—Staten Island CC	20,296	CUNY—Bronx CC	19,605	U of Hawaii	18,492
Hebrew Union C	22,198	Naval Postgrad Sch	20,142	CUNY—Queensboro CC	19,573	Geo Washington U	18,488
Stanford U	21,898	Cornell U—Contract Colls	20,102	US Naval Acad	19,494	CUNY—John Jay C	18,394
CUNY—B M Baruch C	21,571	New York U	20,080	SUNY C—Old Westbury	19,418	CUNY—Boro Manh CC	18,376
U of Chicago	21,519	U of Michigan	20,058	Wesleyan U	19,374	City Colls of Chi	18,330
Yale U	21,271	Columbia U Tchrs C	19,994	U of Virginia	19,373	Indiana U	18,304
CUNY—M Evers C	21,262			SUNY at Albany	19,284	Vanderbilt U	18,194
Mass Inst of Tech	21,211			CUNY—Kingsboro CC	19,276	Haverford C	18,179
Yeshiva U—Grad Sch	20,979			Brandeis U	19,271	Michigan St U	18,177
CUNY—NY City CC	20,866					U of Miami	18,102
Northwestern U	20,804

STUDENT RECEIVES THREE AWARDS--- Mary Lee Mills, a part-time graduate student in Health Care Administration, recently received the Mary Mahoney Award from the American Nurses Association for her contributions to the integration of the nursing profession. Miss Mills, a nurse director with the U.S. Public Health Service, also received this year the Distinguished Service Award from the USPHS and the Rockefeller Public Service Award in the area of Human Resource Development and Protection from Princeton University.

FIVE TO ONE PROGRAM NEEDS VOLUNTEERS--- Faculty and staff interested in getting to know and help freshmen and transfer students next fall should contact Ken Bumgarner at the Student Affairs Office, 7210.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Mary Kidder, Editor

Tuesday, May 30, 1972

RESIDENTIAL POLITICAL SCIENCE COURSE TO BE OFFERED--- A special residential course entitled Political Science and the Contemporary Imagination will be offered this fall to about 30 freshmen who will reside on the first floor of Thurston residence hall.

The course is being given to provide a new way of utilizing the resources of Washington more directly in course work and "to provide a more intellectually stimulating living environment for interested students," according to Marianne Phelps, Dean of Students.

Students are currently being recruited for the two-semester sequence of six credits per semester. They will register for Poli. Sci. 5 and Exp. Hum. 5 in the fall semester, and for Poli. Sci. 6 and Exp. Hum. 6 in the spring. An instructor and teaching assistant will give the course. The latter will live in the residence hall and serve as both teaching assistant and resident assistant.

The course will focus on problem areas associated with the "organization and governing of the highly industrialized democratic polity." A course description says that "the theoretical power of Political Science and the interest in human values and welfare that distinguishes the Humanities will be brought to bear on areas such as: elections as imperfect instruments of accountability; government and the corporation; the socialization of risk; responsibility and bureaucracy; the political awakening of formerly unorganized groups; and the rebellion and the state."

WOMEN ARE SUBJECT OF SYMPOSIUM--- A symposium entitled, Women Today and Tomorrow, will be held at GW Saturday, June 10, under the sponsorship of the Continuing Education for Women program in the College of General Studies. The symposium, to begin at 10 a.m. in the ballroom of the Marvin Center, is a benefit for the New Horizons Scholarship Fund for part-time women students. Included in the program will be a talk by Jessie Bernard, author of The Sex Game and Academic Women, on the subject, "The Future of Marriage"; and a discussion on "Educated Women in the Work Force" led by Felice

-more-

Schwartz, President of the New York-based nonprofit organization, Catalyst. Ms. Schwartz is co-author of How To Go to Work When Your Husband Is Against It, Your Children Aren't Old Enough and There's Nothing You Can Do Anyhow. Catharine P. Stimpson, Director of the Women's Center and Professor of English at Barnard College, will discuss "New Developments in Women's Studies in Higher Education." The symposium and luncheon are open to interested faculty, staff, and students, and to their spouses. The symposium costs $7.50, and the luncheon, $3.00. Reservations can be made by calling 7036.

ON TV--- Dr. Marvin Gordon, Chairman of the Department of Geography and Regional Science, will be the moderator of a panel discussion on world population, on the WRC-TV (Channel 4) program "Topic." June 4, at 2:30 p.m. Participants will investigate the effects that culture, politics, and geography can have on the growth and planning of a population.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Eleanor W. Zimmerman, Acting Editor

Tuesday, September 5, 1972

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB resumes its regular schedule of services today. Members are reminded of several changes. A gratuity will no longer be added automatically to your bill. You may leave a cash tip or add an appropriate gratuity yourself when signing the chit.

Some minor alterations have been made in the dining room and bar, in addition to some welcomed changes in the menu. With these improvements, Club officers say that no other dining room can beat the Club in menu, price and service.

MARVIN CENTER CONTRIBUTES TO EDUCATION--- Donald R. Levy, Operations Manager for the Center, asks that members of the University community submit sound materials, such as records and tapes, for transciption by the Center. Once transcribed, the recordings will be filed and entered in the catalogs of the Listening Lounge for students. Records or tapes now in use by language departments, recorded poetry, drama, special instructions for class, special lectures are among the subjects desired. The sound materials will then be returned. Once the system is full operative, the transcription period should take no more than two days. For further information, phone Mr. Levy on 7470.

"CHALLENGE AND CHANGE" ON CHANNEL 4--- Various GWU faculty members are being questioned each morning by a panel of students from GW and other area universities on changes taking place to meet society's challenges in the realms of higher education today. The series of ten discussions occur between 6:30 and 7:00 a.m. on NBC's WRC. Now in its second week, the program can be seen the last three mornings of this week. John McGrath, of this office, is University coordinator and participates in every discussion. NBC plans to air the GWU program in four other metropolitan areas.

-more-

REMINDER OF FACULTY ASSEMBLY TOMORROW AFTERNOON, 4 O'CLOCK IN LISNER--- As is customary, faculty members new to the University will be introduced by their respective deans. Also on the agenda will be remarks by Ed Stevens, chairman of the executive committee of the Faculty Senate, and reports from three University officers.

Charles E. Diehl, Vice President and Treasurer, will speak of the current status of construction on campus.

Associate Dean Long, of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, will describe five new master's degree programs. One in Special Studies, tailored to the individual student's requirements, is highly interdisciplinary. The other four are mainly off-campus programs: Legislative Affairs, Urban Learning, Investigative Techniques, and Telecommunications Operations.

Alton H. Desmond, Chairman of the Committee on Programs for Columbian College, will report on the progress of the 90-hours' degree program for qualified students and the development of new interdisciplinary curricula.

MEDICAL INSURANCE VIA BLUE SHIELD/BLUE CROSS--- During the "open enrollment period" of July, the number of full-time University employees signing up for coverage met the necessary quota. Their insurance became effective September 1.

COMPENSATION PRACTICES TO BE REVIEWED--- The University has retained the services of Robert H. Hayes and Associates, Inc., consultants to management, to review GWU's current compensation practices and to recommend improved programs where required... and once these recommended programs are approved, to assist the University in implementing them. It is expected that this review will get underway immediately, according to word from the office of John Cantini, Vice-President for Administration.

TOASTMASTERS CLUB COMES TO CAMPUS--- Anyone wishing to improve in speech-making or in speaking informally before a group is invited to join the GW chapter. Meetings and speeches take place during the noon hour from 12:15 to 1:30 on the first and third Wednesdays of each month in the University Center. For further information, phone Mr. Burch or Mr. Hart on 6700.

CGS WELCOMES SUNRISE SEMESTER--- The nationally acclaimed courses offered by New York University on television at 6:30 a.m. weekdays and 7:30 a.m. on Saturday may now be taken for academic credit through the College of General Studies. The two courses beginning the fall semester September 25 are Twentieth Century American Art and Sociology: Law and Morality. Each course will consist of half-hour lectures on alternate mornings of the week on CBS, Channel 9, WTOP. Those not enrolling for academic credit may obtain a reading list, study guide and course description for a $10 fee through CGS. Phone 7019. Required books may be purchased through the University for $30. Those enrolling for academic credit in CGS's off-campus degree programs will pay tuition of $180 for a three-hour course. Francis S. Grubar is GWU coordinator of the art course. Thomas F. Courtless, Jr. is GWU coordinator of the sociology course.

NEW PROGRAM FOR LEGAL PARAPROFESSIONALS--- CGS, through its Continuing Education for Women, has launched this fall a two-semester training course two nights a week for legal assistants. A new profession, the legal assistant functions between the supervising attorney and the clerical and secretarial staff. The program, open to both men and women who qualify on the Law School Admission Test or on a battery of other tests, is being offered in cooperation with the National Law Center and the Washington legal community. The first semester will be devoted to legal research and legal writing. The second semester will be taught by practicing attorneys with emphasis on administrative law and civil litigation. Students will be given the opportunity to choose the area in which they wish to concentrate.

GWU is thought to be the first university in the East to inaugurate such a program.

RECENT MAJOR APPOINTMENTS--- James Feffer, M.D., was named Vice President for Medical Affairs to fill the vacancy left by the sudden death of Dr. John Parks July 4. Philip S. Birnbaum, former executive assistant to the Dean of the Medical Center, has been appointed Associate Dean of the Medical Center for Administrative Affairs.

Charles Chambers, former Director of Educational Planning of University Associates, a Washington-based consulting firm, has been appointed Associate Dean for Long-Range Planning and Development, College of General Studies. He is a new and second Associate Dean in CGS. Ruth Osborn has been named CGS's Assistant Dean with responsibility for Continuing Education for Women.

Sal Fiscina, M.D., formerly Flight Surgeon for the Presidential Air Wing, has replaced Dr. Richard B. Castell, Director Emeritus, as Director of Student Health Service. Dr. Fiscina, with an undergraduate degree from Harvard, earned his medical degree at the University of Rochester's School of Medicine.

NEW FALL BASEBALL LEAGUE--- Robert Faris, Director of Athletics, has announced the formation of a baseball league among the five universities in D.C. Mr. Faris pointed out that with classes ending in late April, both the players and coaches welcomed a fall season. Twelve games will be played by each baseball team during September and October. GW's first game is September 20 against Georgetown on its field. For other September dates, phone Doug Gould on 6654. The October baseball schedule will appear in the University calendar of GW Times, October-November issue.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Eleanor W. Zimmerman, Acting Editor

Monday, September 11, 1972

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT STRIKES CHEERFUL NOTE--- At the faculty assembly Wednesday President Elliott stated that he felt better about the University's financial position than he had in several years. The anticipated $600,000 deficit last year did not occur-- thanks to new cost-accounting methods, Dr. Seymour Alpert's fund-raising efforts, and the cooperation of faculty and staff. President Elliott concluded with the remark that the University ended the fiscal year with "the so-called two dollars in the bank."

GW'S CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM OVER THE PAST THREE YEARS was reviewed by Charles Diehl, Vice-President and Treasurer. Mr. Diehl said that a strike of elevator workers had delayed the completion of the parking garage. The garage is complete except for the installation of elevators. The strike may also delay completion of other buildings and add to the final costs.

THE NEW MASTER OF ARTS IN SPECIAL STUDIES was described by Associate Dean William Long, of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. He cited case histories of candidates in the master's degree program which permits students to substitute courses and a comprehensive examination for a thesis. About 50 students are enrolled in this new program and the attrition rate is low-- only four per cent.

CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON PROGRAMS FOR COLUMBIAN COLLEGE, Alton H. Desmond reported that two students were graduated in May under the new 90 credit-hours-degree program, and five others may graduate at the end of this academic year. Professor Desmond also pointed out that his committee members are developing a degree program in environmental sciences.

FELLOWSHIP INFORMATION CENTER--- William B. Griffith, Associate Professor of Philosophy, reminded faculty members that he was available to help on the paperwork involved in nominating faculty or students for various honors and fellowships. The Center, located in Building S, 2025 H Street, is open from 10 to 5.

-more-

THE CASE OF ZIGLAR ET AL VS. GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY has been "dismissed without prejudice." The suit was filed against the University after its four-day closing in the spring of 1970.

THE FIVE-TO-ONE PROGRAM, initiated in the office of William Smith, Vice President for Student Affairs, has become the Six-To-One Program this year. According to all reports reaching the Office of Public Relations, the freshmen and transfer students are enthusiastic. IMPACT, a student volunteer group to help the newcomers feel at home, has also been praised by the students.

FACULTY AND STAFF ARE REMINDED that nominees for the annual Alumni Achievement Awards are now in order. Ellwood Smith states that recommendations may be made by a phone call to his office during this week. The necessary biographical data may be submitted at a later date.

FOOD PRICES ON 15 SELECTED A LA CARTE ITEMS have been raised in the first floor cafeteria of the Marvin Center. John Einbinder, Business Manager, in approving the requested price increases from the food contractor, said that both the wholesale prices of food and increased wages were a factor warranting the price increases. For example, the price of ham increased from 77 cents per pound to $1.03 a pound between June 1971 and June 1972.

NEW DIRECTOR OF THE COMMUNITY LEGAL CLINIC is Eric Sirulnik, Visiting Associate Professor of Law, who replaces Willie Leftwich. Now in its second year, the Clinic gives second and third-year law students an opportunity to represent the poor in civil cases under the supervision of a practicing attorney.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, September 25, 1972

STEERING COMMITTEE FOR ALL-UNIVERSITY ASSEMBLY--- Professor of Law Ralph C. Nash, Jr. will serve as Chairman of the Steering Committee for the proposed All-University Assembly. Other faculty members will be: Associate Professor of Philosophy William B. Griffith; Professor of Speech George F. Henigan; Associate Professor of Medicine Norman C. Kramer; Professor of Political Science and Public Affairs Hugh L. LeBlanc; Assistant Professor of Physics Margaret W. Montzka; and Professor of Chemistry Reuben E. Wood. From the administration will come: Dean Harold Liebowitz of the School of Engineering and Applied Science; Dean Burton M. Sapin of the School of Public and International Affairs; and Vice President for Student Affairs William P. Smith, Jr. Student members will be: Bambi Adams, Shakespeare L. Brissett, Joseph A. DeRiggi, Mary H. Grant, Michael Georgen, Peter J. Kurshan, and Manning G. Warren. Alumni members will be: Mrs. Lyn H. Clark, Ronald E. Pump, J. Dallas Shirley, and E. A. Wareham, 3rd. Serving as Secretary to the Committee will be Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs Carl H. Walther.

PRESIDENT'S OPEN HOUSE--- The first of the 1972-73 University Open Houses with President Elliott will be held on Wednesday, September 27, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m., in the Information Desk Lobby (Ground Floor) of the Marvin Center. Everyone invited. Refreshments.

STEPHEN K. BAILEY NAMED IEL SCHOLAR-IN-RESIDENCE--- Stephen K. Bailey of Syracuse University, a renowned scholar and former Fulbright lecturer, has been named Scholar-in-Residence of the University's Institute for Educational Leadership. He will serve for one year in the newly established post. In making the announcement, jointly with President Elliott, Institute Director Norman Drachler commented on the IEL's purpose of strengthening existing and potential leadership in American education and stated, "We seek scholars whose central focus will be upon clarifying, strengthening, and broadening the horizons of educational leadership and who envision scholarship not merely as an 'ivory tower' activity but a process which includes involvement and participation with interns, community leaders and policy makers." He added that the University is "very fortunate" to initiate the program with Dr. Bailey. Dr. Bailey is on leave from Syracuse where he is Chairman of the Policy Institute of the Syracuse University Research Corporation and Maxwell Professor of Political Science at the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. In addition to his distinguished academic background and professional activities, Dr. Bailey is an active participant in public affairs.

-more-

INCREASED TELEPHONE COSTS FOR GWU--- On August 3, 1972, the Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia granted rate increases to the C & P Telephone Company of Washington, D.C. which will increase the University's telephone costs by approximately 20%, or between $60,000 and $70,000 annually. There was no increase in long-distance calls. However, calls to the local area rose from 3 1/2¢ to 4 1/2¢ per call; and the cost of installing or moving new telephone service or existing telephone service was raised by approximately 200%. In addition, the cost of telephone lines increased approximately 15%.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR COMMUNITY SERVICE AND CONTINUING EDUCATION PROGRAMS--- Approximately $100,000 will be available to the District of Columbia institutions of higher education for community service and continuing education programs this coming year. The program is funded under Title 1 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, for which the Consortium of Universities serves as the designated State Agency in the District. Funding for projects is 2/3 Federal monies and 1/3 local. Of the 1/3 local (institutional contribution) match required, the District of Columbia Government contributes approximately 50%, institutions making up the difference. The Fiscal 1973 plan for the District of Columbia requests pilot projects addressed to preventive education in the area of pollution of the social and physical environment. Deadline for submitting project applications is November 15, 1972. Grants will be made in February or March of 1973. Those wishing to apply should contact Mrs. Beatty at 667-4416 to secure the application form and a full copy of the D.C. State Plan in which the policies and procedures used in making grants are discussed.

SHUTTLE BUS SERVICE in the University Parking Garage is now operating to service the upper levels of the facility due to lack of completion of the four elevators which was caused by the nationwide strike of elevator installers earlier this year. It now appears the elevators will not be completed until November or December. The shuttle bus service operates on a continual basis from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and may be extended as requirements dictate according to Vice President and Treasurer Charles E. Diehl.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, October 2, 1972

TWO FIRSTS--- Two university degrees are awarded for the first time with the publication of the September 30 graduates list. In the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, LeCount Maurice Hughes of the District of Columbia has completed the requirements for the degree of Master of Arts in Special Studies in the field of urban learning. He completed the work with off-campus study through the College of General Studies. A teacher in the D.C. Public School System, he holds the degree of Bachelor of Science (1966) from District of Columbia Teachers College. In the School of Education, Donald K. Silvey of Maryland is the first to receive the Master of Arts in Education through the off-campus programs leading to graduate degrees offered by the School of Education. He completed the work at the College of General Studies Tri-County Center in Waldorf, Md. His field of specialization has been secondary education. A Captain in the U.S. Army, he holds the degree of Bachelor of Arts (1967) from Tuskegee Institute.

PARENTS' WEEKEND--- will be October 13 through 15. Faculty and staff members are invited to attend the Cocktail Party on Saturday, October 14, from 5:00 to 6:30 p.m. on the 3rd Floor Terrace of the Marvin Center. Questions about the weekend will be answered by the Office of Student Activities, ext 6555. A schedule of events follows:

Friday, October 13

4:00 to 8:00 p.m. Registration, Ground Floor, Marvin Center

9:00 to 10:00 p.m. Receptions in Residence Halls for parents of resident students with members of Hall Councils and Hall Staffs

Saturday, October 14

8:30 to 10:00 a.m. Registration, Ground Floor, Marvin Center

10:00 to 11:30 a.m. Morning Program, Dorothy Betts Marvin Theatre
Welcoming remarks and introduction of University Officers
Remarks by Dr. Seymour Alpert, Vice President for Development
Introduction of Dean Calvin D. Linton, Dean of the Columbian

-more-

College of Arts and Sciences
Keynote address by Dr. Joseph Cosand, Deputy Commissioner for Higher Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare

11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Discussion Groups with panels of students, faculty and administrators, 4th Floor, Marvin Center

12:45 to 2:00 p.m. Buffet lunch in the Ballroom. $2.00 per person (at the door)

2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Bus tour of the highlights of the Nation's Capital
Busses will leave from the front of the Marvin Center

OR Discussion and slide presentation of the University's physical development followed by a tour of the campus, highlighting some of the new construction and conducted by Vice President and Treasurer Charles E. Diehl. This program will begin in Room 410 of the Marvin Center.

4:00 to 5:00 p.m. Specialized discussions for interested parents
Members of the University's faculty and staff will be available in Conference Rooms 402, 404, and 406 of the Center to discuss specific aspects of university life. Tentative topics include: the new Service Learning Program and other developments in the 1972-73 academic program; student activities available to resident and commuter students; the campus security program for 1972-73; and the first weeks of co-educational housing.

5:00 to 6:30 p.m. Cocktails with University faculty and administrators
Cash bar. Complimentary punch and hors-d'oeuvres
Terrace, 3rd floor, Marvin Center

8:30 p.m. to midnight Special Parents' Weekend night in the Rathskeller
Dixieland Band and typical Rathskeller bill of fare
5th floor, Marvin Center

Sunday, October 15

10:00 to 11:30 a.m. Complimentary breakfast in the Ballroom.
Remarks by President Lloyd H. Elliott

NEW CLUB BENEFITS--- Any club member who retires from his normal full-time job, is no longer employed, and has reached his or her 60th birthday, is entitled to a reduction in Club dues. A written statement to the effect that these three conditions prevail will result in a 50% reduction of dues. Professors who will be on sabbatical leave for a semester need not pay dues for the period during which they are on sabbatical. A written notice giving the period of the sabbatical should be given to the Club. Widows or widowers of Club members may retain their memberships for $25.00 a year. These policies were adopted recently by the Univeristy Club Board.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, October 9, 1972

UGF--- The University's United Givers Fund Campaign solicitation begins tomorrow, October 10, under the general chairmanship of Assistant Vice President for Research Carl J. Lange. A "kick-off" meeting for UGF Keymen will be held at 2:30 p.m. in Rooms 402-6 in the Marvin Center (October 10).

PROPOSALS FOR NEW COURSES INVITED BY OFFICE OF PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT--- The Office of Program Development has announced the availability of financial support for the planning and teaching of a limited number of new courses. The funds for this purpose were included in the four-year grant to George Washington from the National Endowment for the Humanities. In seeking that institutional development grant, the University not only requested support for specific courses but also asked for "discretionary funds for the development of new courses and programs for their short-range support." The original language of the proposal continued, "Disbursement of these funds would be at the discretion of the Advisory Committee on the Humanities. We intend these funds as seed-money for interested instructors and departments throughout the university for the support of fruitful and feasible curricular innovations appropriate to the purposes of this proposal." According to the guidelines which have been established, grants will be awarded in two stages. When a proposal for a new course has been approved in general terms by the Advisory Committee on the Humanities, money will be made available to the appropriate department for release of faculty time for planning. When a final course plan has been approved, money will be made available in order to release the author or authors from a fraction of their normal teaching loads in order to teach the new course. Students who have ideas for new courses are encouraged to locate faculty members who would be interested in planning and teaching such courses. Proposals should be directed to the Office of Program Development. For further information regarding criteria and procedures, contact Roderick French, 409 Monroe Hall, ext. 7565.

-more-

BLOOD RECRUITMENT PROGRAM--- A mobile unit from the District of Columbia Red Cross will be on campus Thursday, October 12 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in Rooms 402-404 of the Marvin Center for the convenience of those who wish to participate in the University's Blood Recruitment Program. Mr. Ken Bumgarner of the Student Affairs Division is chairman of the program assisted by volunteers from each major segment of the University. Goal of the program is approximately 200 blood donors. Those unable to donate October 12 may call D.C. Red Cross for an appointment (857-3767). They should indicate their association with the University so that their donation is credited to the GWU program. An individual donor and certain members of his family are entitled to free blood from the Red Cross for one year from the date of the donation. The time required for giving blood is approximately one to one and a half hours.

POSTAL RATE INCREASES BECOME PERMANENT--- On July 6, 1972, the temporary postal rates used by the U.S. Postal Service became permanent. These rates have been in effect since May, 1971. The special second, third, and fourth class rates, affecting educational and non-profit institutions, are now increased to 2.4 cents, 8 cents, and 14 cents per pound respectively. The rate for library materials was increased to 6 cents per pound. Additional information on rate changes may be obtained from The George Washington University Mail Services.

ADDRESS REMINDER--- Mail addressed to the University through the U.S. Postal Service should appear as follows:

First Line: Name (Optional)
Second Line: Department (Required)
Third Line: The George Washington University (Required)
Fourth Line: Washington, D.C. 20006 (Required)

The Business Office advises that street addresses should not be used as this can cause delays in delivery to the University by the U.S. Postal Service.

NEW THEATRE TICKET POLICY--- Senior citizens, 60 years of age or over, may now attend any performance sponsored by the University's Department of Speech and Drama for an entrance fee of $1.00. The first opportunity for this group to benefit from this reduction will be at the October 14, 15, and 16 performances of Ah, Wilderness! at 8:00 p.m. and the October 14 matinee at 2:00 p.m. in the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theatre.

FACULTY WOMEN'S CLUB--- The Faculty Women's Club of the University will open the year with a meeting on Friday, October 13, at 11:00 a.m. at Wolf Trap Farm for the Performing Arts. For reservations, call Mrs. Walter K. Kahn today at 467-8412.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, October 23, 1972

PERSONNEL CONSULTANTS REPORT--- As a result of the recommendations submitted earlier this month by the consulting firm of Robert H. Hayes and Associates, Inc., the University is adopting a new salary and classification system for non-academic employees.

The new system is scheduled to be implemented on July 1, 1973. The present salary and classification system will remain in effect until that time. The new system will have several important benefits: position classifications and classification descriptions will be updated and revised to make them consistent with actual job duties and responsibilities; present salary ranges for salary grades will be revised to the extent necessary to assure that the University can attract and retain competent employees; position classifications will be assigned to salary grades on an equitable University-wide basis; salary adjustments will be more closely tied to job performance. The development of the new system will take approximately 6 to 7 months. During this time, most non-academic employees will be asked to participate by furnishing up-to-date information about their jobs.

The new salary system will represent a major step toward achieving a complete and consistent compensation program for all University personnel. Periodic bulletins will be issued to keep all employees informed about the development of the new system.

PRESIDENT'S OPEN HOUSE--- The second in this year's series of University Open Houses with President Elliott will be held this Tuesday, tomorrow, October 24th from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. in the Thurston Hall Lounge. Refreshments. Everyone is invited.

-more-

FRANK HOWARD LECTURE--- Dr. Wernher von Braun, Vice President-Engineering and Development for Fairchild Industries and former Deputy Associate Administrator of NASA, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will deliver this year's Frank Howard Lecture on Monday, October 30, at 8:00 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. Dr. von Braun's remarks will deal with the applications of space development for the future.

The Frank Howard Lecture is presented through an endowment for lectures by scientific and engineering leaders on the relationship of space and engineering to mankind. The lecture is sponsored by the Engineer Alumni Association and the School of Engineering and Applied Science, and is open to the university community and alumni without charge.

SAFETY AND SECURITY--- An Advisory Committee on Safety and Security has been formed by Vice President for Administration H. John Cantini. The committee, under the chairmanship of Professor Reuben Wood, will assist Vice President Cantini in formulating policies and practices in the area of safety and security. Other members of the committee will be: Donald Cotter, Assistant Director of the Marvin Center; Miss Ann Webster, Director of Housing; Craig Indyk, student member of the Marvin Center Governing Board; a representative of the Residence Hall Association; and, as ex officio members, Harry Geiglein, Director of Safety and Security, and Byron M. Matthai, Assistant Director of Safety and Security.

MEDICAL SCHOOL TUITION RAISE--- The Board of Trustees at its October 19 meeting approved an increase in medical school tuition for next year. The tuition increase will mean that all students will pay $3000 for 1973-74. This will represent an increase of $400 for other than first-year students who are paying $3000 for this year, 1972-73. Other medical students are paying $2600 for this year. The 1973-74 increase had been projected and is noted in the 1972-73 School of Medicine Bulletin.

GREEK TRAGEDY LECTURE SERIES--- Between November 4, 1972, and February 3, 1973 the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences jointly with the University's Department of Classics will present the noted classical scholar, Dr. Bernard M. W. Knox, Director of the Center for Hellenic Studies in Washington, D.C., in a series of Saturday morning lectures on Greek tragedy. Topic of the lecture series will be "A City and A Theatre: Fifth Century Athens". The lectures, eight in number, will be given in Room 101 of Classroom Building C, 2201 G St., N.W. from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, with one exception.

The lectures will be free to all George Washington University students and faculty with ID cards. The charge for all others will be $5.00 for the series or $1.00 for a single lecture. Following the introductory lecture on November 4, Dr. Knox, who is an actor and teacher as well as a scholar, will lecture on The Oresteia by Aeschylus (November 11 and 18); on Oedipus the King by Sophocles (December 2); on Antigone by Sophocles (December 9); on Medea by Euripides (December 16 in the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theatre); on Electra by Euripides (January 27, 1973); and on Bacchae by Euripides (February 3).

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, October 30, 1972

METRO STATION--- The Washington Metropolitan Area Transportation Authority has designated the Metro station at 23rd and Eye Streets, N.W., now under construction, as the Foggy Bottom-GWU Station.

THE ADVOCATES--- The Advocates, the national award winning television show on the PBS (Public Broadcasting Service) network will be taped in the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theatre on Tuesday, October 31, at 8:00 p.m. George Washington students will make up the live audience for the taping. The show, last in the five-round campaign series, "Five Rounds to Election Day", will be on the question "Nixon or McGovern: Who should be President?" The advocates on the campaign special will be Alan Derschowitz, Harvard law professor (for McGovern) and John T. Marshall, Atlanta trial lawyer (for Nixon). Guests on the program who will try to convince the viewing audience to vote for their man will be: Kevin Phillips, author of The Emerging Republican Majority; Democratic Senator Adlai E. Stevenson, III; McGovern campaign chairman Larry O'Brien, and another as yet unnamed Republican guest. The Program Board is sponsoring the taping. Tickets are being distributed to students through the Student Activities Office. The show will be telecast by approximately 228 PBS stations around the country. It will be aired locally on WETA TV on Thursday, November 2, at 8:00 p.m.

THE NIFTY SWIFTY FIFTIES--- A cross section of students is sponsoring a series of events called "The Nifty Swifty Fifties" to raise money for the United Givers Fund and The United Black Fund. Student co-chairmen are Tyrone O'Neal and Susan Grob. The events planned are: an "It" contest for someone who typifies the '50s, to run from Tuesday, October 31, through Saturday, November 4, at 2:30 p.m.; a Telephone Booth Stuffing contest on Friday, November 3, on the Marvin Center Ramp, from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.; '50s Night at the Rat (the Rathskeller in the Marvin Center) on Friday, November 3 at 8:00 p.m.; and a Be-Bop Hop Dance on Saturday, November 4, in the Marvin Center Ballroom at 8:00 p.m.

DR. WERNHER VON BRAUN--- The Frank Howard Lecture will be given by Dr. Wernher von Braun, Vice President-Engineering and Development for Fairchild Industries, and former Deputy Associate Administrator of NASA, tonight, Monday, October 30, at 8:00 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium.

FIRST CLASSICAL LECTURE--- The first lecture in the series, "A City and A Theatre: Fifth Century Athens" will be given by Dr. Bernard M. W. Knox, Director of the Center for Hellenic Studies, in Room 101, Building C, 2201 G Street, N.W., Saturday, November 4, at 11:00 a.m. For information call: x6130 or x6125.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, November 13, 1972

GWU WINNERS--- Alumni who were winners in the November 7 elections in nearby Virginia and Maryland are: William L. Scott, (R-Va.), elected to the United States Senate from Virginia; Gilbert Gude, (R-Md.), of the 8th Congressional District of Maryland, and Goodloe E. Byron, (D-Md.), of the 6th Congressional District of Maryland, both re-elected to the United States House of Representatives; Joel T. Broyhill, (R-Va.), of the 10th Congressional District of Virginia, who was re-elected to the United States House of Representatives; Stanford E. Parris, (R-Va.), who was elected from the 8th Congressional District of Virginia to the United States House of Representatives; and Harriet Bernstein and Thomas S. Israel, who were both elected to the Board of Education of Montgomery County in Maryland.

SPONSORED RESEARCH GUIDELINES--- Members of the University Community, when in the process of preparing grant applications and in carrying out their research, are respectfully requested by the Committee on Sponsored Research, to keep the 1969 research guidelines in mind. In addition it would greatly assist the Committee's review task if the abstracts were written in nontechnical language and included not only the problem to be investigated, but the method and possible implications as well. The Committee on Sponsored Research, consisting of faculty and students, reviews all sponsored research proposals to assure conformity with the research policy of the University. The Guidelines pursuant to this policy were adopted in 1969 and may be obtained from department heads of the Office of Sponsored Research, Sixth Floor, Rice Hall. The procedure has been for Committee members to first review the abstracts. If there are questions about or ambiguities in the abstract, then the full proposal is reviewed.

OPINION SOUGHT--- The Educational Policy Committee of the Faculty Senate is soliciting the views of the University Community on the desirability of continuing the publication of the Academic Forum. The University Community is asked to send any comments or suggestions to Professor Arthur Kirsch, Department of Statistics.

-more-

FLU SHOTS--- Inoculation will be given at no charge to faculty, students, and employees on Wednesday, November 15, in the Lower Lounge of Lisner Auditorium, from 12:30 to 4:00 p.m. The shots will not be administered to anyone with a cold or any other upper respiratory infection. Nor will it be given to those allergic to chicken feathers or chicken eggs.

SIGMA DELTA CHI--- "The Reporters and the Candidates -- Assessing Media Coverage of the '72 Campaign" will be the subject of a panel discussion, tonight, November 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the Marvin Center Ballroom. Moderator will be Associate Professor of Journalism Philip Robbins. Panelists will be: Sander Vanocur of National Education Television Network; Cassie Mackin of NBC; and Peter Lisagor of The Chicago Daily News Washington Bureau and of Meet the Press. Sponsored by the Washington Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the panel is open to the University Community.

KENTUCKY HERITAGE ARTISTS--- An exhibition of some 80 paintings by the 16 Kentucky Heritage Artists will be presented in the Marvin Center Gallery from November 14 through 30. Sponsored by the Program Board and Appalachian Regional Hospitals, the exhibition is in observance of the 10th year of service by the 10 Appalachian Hospitals in Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, and parts of Tennessee. A painting by Joseph Petro has been borrowed from its owner, President Nixon, for the exhibition.

DANCE CONCERT--- The George Washington University Dance Company will present its fall dance concert Wednesday through Sunday, November 15 through 19, in the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theatre at 8:30 p.m. There will be one matinee performance on Sunday, November 19, at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $2.50 and $1.50, call x7410.

CANTERBURY TALES--- The rollicking musical "Canterbury Tales" will be presented by the Department of Speech and Drama November 16 through 19 at 8:00 p.m. and Friday, November 17 at 12:00 noon in Lisner Auditorium. The musical is based on a translation from Chaucer by Nevill Coghill with stage book by Martin Starkie and Nevill Coghill. Tickets are $3.50 and $2.50, call x6178 or 6179.

HOLIDAY FAIR--- The Hospital Womens Board will hold its annual Holiday Fair on Friday, November 17, in the Main Conference Room of the hospital, from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Baked goods, handmades, and holiday greens will be among the items offered for sale.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA--- Stephen Prussing will conduct the Chorus and Orchestra in Bach's Magnificat at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, November 20, in Lisner Auditorium. The performance is free.

COLONIALS RECEPTION--- The University Community is invited to a champagne reception sponsored by the Colonials to unveil plans for the fieldhouse and activities building in the Marvin Center Ballroom on Tuesday, November 21, from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Head Basketball Coach Carl Slone will introduce the team and discuss the prospects for the coming season. Call the Alumni Office x6435 if you plan to attend.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, December 4, 1972

MAJOR GIFT FOR UNIVERSITY LIBRARY--- A gift of $100,000 for the University Library has been received from University Trustee and Alumnus William Gregg White. The gift was announced by President Elliott at a meeting of the Board of the Friends of the Libraries on Friday, December 1. The funds will be used to buy new books and other printed materials (through the University Library Gift Book Fund) for the new library. "This is a timely and significant gift since the new library will provide the additional space necessary to service the new acquisitions," President Elliott said, adding, "This gift will have lasting value to the University community."

Mr. White, president and chairman of the board of Consolidated Freightways, Inc. holds the degree of Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering (1936) from the University. He is an alumnus of the University of California and a graduate of the Harvard University Advanced Management Program. He serves on the executive committees of the American Trucking Association and the Transportation Association of America, and is a past president of the Western Highway Institute. Active in civic affairs in the San Francisco area, he is a director of the Chamber of Commerce and of Stanford Children's Convalescent Hospital, a regent of St. Mary's College, and an associate of St. Francis Hospital.

METRO BLASTING--- Blasting of rock will be taking place under Eye Street, between the limits of 20th Street and New Hampshire Avenue, N.W. over the next several months. Massman-Kiewit-Early, under contract with the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, will be removing approximately 55,000 cubic yards of rock in order to reach the required elevation on which the foundation of the METRO concrete structure rests. Drilling and blasting methods will be employed. The amount of dynamite consumed by a single blast will be relatively small, according to Massman-Kiewit-Early. The firm says that all necessary precautions will be taken to protect the public from danger or inconvenience, including the covering of the area to be blasted by a safety net. The blasting is to take place 30 to 40 feet below the top of the street level. Approximate time for the blasts will be about 3:00 p.m. A system of loud air whistles will be used as a warning in each case. These whistles will consist of a one-minute series of long intermittent whistles five minutes before the blast signal. The blast signal will be a series of short intermittent whistles one minute before the blast. The all clear signal will be one long whistle following the inspection of the blast area.

-more-

GW ORCHESTRA--- George Steiner will conduct the Orchestra in a concert this evening, December 4, at 8:00 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. Featured will be Soye Kim, performing Bruch's Violin Concerto in G Minor. Free.

EDUCATION ALUMNI ASSOCIATION--- The Reverend David Eaton will speak following the buffet dinner sponsored by the Education Alumni Association in the GW Club on Tuesday, December 5 at 7:00 p.m. Call x 6435.

VIRGIL FOX--- Virgil Fox's Heavy Organ and Light Show with Pablo Lights will be presented by the Program Board in Constitution Hall on Wednesday, December 6, at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $5.00 Call x 7312.

GW CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA--- The Christmas portions of Handel's Messiah will be presented by the GW Chorus and Orchestra on Thursday, December 7, at 8:00 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium. Stephen Prussing will conduct. Free.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, December 11, 1972

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT REFUTES CHARGES AGAINST THE UNIVERSITY--- "I am appalled at the accusations that have been made with regard to the actions of the university during the recently concluded trial of the U.S. versus Butler and have determined beyond any doubt that the accusations are untrue," President Elliott said in a statement Thursday, December 7.

The statement came in response to accusations of the Assistant United States Attorney assigned to prosecute the case. The accusations said that the university failed to cooperate with the Government and cooperated with the defense and that it is more interested in financial considerations than in taking care of its students.

"It is indeed true that the university is faced with a five million dollar civil suit," President Elliott said, "and this, of course, concerns us, but we are even more deeply concerned that the university should be thought to have more interest in financial considerations than in the personal safety and well being of every member of the university community and in the proper conduct of all university activities."

"A close study of the sequence of events shows that university security personnel behaved in a manner which was entirely proper with regard to the investigation and trial of this case," he continued.

"All of us here at the university deeply regret the occurrence of any incidents which may have been harmful or disturbing to anyone," he said.

"Many unsupported statements have appeared in the news media purportedly made by the prosecutor after the trial. The university has reviewed and investigated the circumstances surrounding these allegations and the following facts, showing the university's full cooperation with the authorities, have emerged:

-more-

1. The George Washington University's Office of Safety and Security immediately secured statements from five of its security officers who were involved in the initial investigation of the incidents on the night of February 7 and the early morning of February 8. Copies of these statements were given the next day to the Metropolitan Police Department officers assigned to the investigation.

2. An office on the GWU campus was placed at the disposal of the investigating officers of the Metropolitan Police Department on the early morning of February 8, 1972 and was used by them for many days thereafter. The GWU Office of Safety and Security submitted the names of all students and members of the staff who had any knowledge about either incident, and those persons were located by the University and, in turn, agreed to be interviewed by the Police officers.

3. The university learned from the authorities that its Security Officer, Mr. Charles Finney, was under investigation for his role in this matter, and was requested to appear in the U.S. Attorney's office for questioning. Mr. Finney, on his own, promptly appeared at the U.S. Attorney's office.

4. On September 28, 1972, the university's Assistant Director of Safety and Security was summoned to appear in the office of the prosecutor and had a conference with him to assist him in his trial preparation. At that time the prosecutor had the reports of the five security officers which had been previously given to the Metropolitan Police Department. It is to be presumed that the prosecutor also had available to him all other records and reports in the hands of the Metropolitan Police Department.

5. At the request of the prosecutor, there were mailed to him documents consisting of copies of Mr. Finney's work assignments for the period August 1, 1971, through February 8, 1972, which documents were in the Government's hands at least one month before the trial.

6. The following university personnel were subpoened by the prosecutor and did appear as Government witnesses: Mr. Michael Steger, a Security officer; Dr. Mary Capon, on the staff at the Student Health Clinic; Dr. Roger Starkweather, an intern in surgery; and Dr. Edward Koch, an OB-GYN resident at the University Hospital.

7. The following university personnel were subpoened by the defense attorney and appeared as witnesses at the trial: Mr. Byron Matthai, Assistant Director of Safety and Security; and Security Officer Charles Finney. These witnesses for the defense were interviewed by the defense attorney for the first time in the halls or a lounge of the Court House.

8. Near the end of the trial the defense attorney announced that he wanted to subpoena three university students for the next morning. In order to expedite the trial, Mr. Matthai contacted these students that night and they appeared and testified the next morning.

9. The last witness called to testify was Ronald Patterson. Neither the prosecutor nor the defense attorney was willing to call him as their witness, and Judge Pratt asked Mr. Matthai if he would produce him in court as the Court's witness. Mr. Matthai agreed and the Judge adjourned Court until Mr. Patterson could be located.

The university transported him to Court and Judge Pratt called him as the Court's witness and allowed both counsel to cross-examine him.

10. The university acknowledges that it is one of the defendants in a $5,000,000 civil law suit brought by a parent of one of the student complainants. The case is presently in the discovery stages and any comments, at this time, could be prejudicial to the parties. The attorneys representing the university in this civil action were not called upon by either the prosecutor or the defense attorney to render any assistance to either side prior to or during the criminal trial." he concluded.

HIRAM MILLER STOUT MEMORIAL FUND--- In remembrance of the leadership of the late Founding Dean of the School of Public and International Affairs and Professor Emeritus of International Affairs and Political Science, the Hiram Miller Stout Memorial Fund has been established. The fund will be used in the area of student assistance. Dean Stout died on November 11, 1972. He came to the university in 1962 and played a major role in the establishment of the School of Public and International Affairs in 1966, serving as its first dean until his retirement from that post in 1969. He also served as Director of the George Washington University Center at Newport, Rhode Island. As dean, one of his chief interests was the welfare of the students in the school and he was well known for his compassionate handling of their problems. Colleagues remember him as a fine teacher, scholar, and human being. Those wishing to contribute to the fund may make their checks payable to The George Washington University and send them to the Office of the Vice President and Treasurer with an identifying notation or cover letter.

METRO BLASTING TIMES--- The approximate time for the blasting of rock, which will be taking place for the next several months under Eye Street between 20th Street and New Hampshire Avenue, N.W., has been revised to 12:00 noon daily and/or 3:00 p.m. daily. This new time schedule is to give more latitude in proceeding with the work. Blasting will take place 30 to 40 feet below the top of the street level. The contractor says that all necessary precautions are being taken to protect the public from danger or inconvenience, including the coverage of the area to be blasted by a safety net. The use of a system of loud air whistles for the warning signal, the blast signal, and the all clear signal, previously announced, will be maintained.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING AND COMPUTER SCIENCE COLLOQUIUM--- Professor Jack Wolf of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn will speak on "Data Compression for Multiple Information Sources" in Tompkins Hall, Room 200, at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, December 14. Professor Raymond L. Pickholtz will be the moderator. Co-sponsored by the Washington, D.C. chapter of the IEEE Information Theory Group and the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, the colloquium is free and open to the public.

-Monday Report-

THE MONDAY REPORT

The George Washington University

Published by the Office of Public Relations
Jane Lingo, Acting Editor

Monday, December 18, 1972

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This space is provided by the Monday Report in response to a request from Professor of Law John F. Banzhaf, III.)

EXCERPTS FROM STATEMENTS OF JOHN F. BANZHAF III, PROFESSOR OF LAW, BEFORE THE FACULTY SENATE, DECEMBER 8, 1972, RESPONDING TO THE STATEMENT OF UNIVERSITY CONCERNING THE RECENT RAPE/SODOMY TRIAL---

On December 7, fully six days after the charges had been made, the University issued a detailed statement responding to allegations made by the Assistant U.S. Attorney and others concerning the University's role in the recent rape/sodomy trial. With all due respect, the statement does not mention, much less deny, a number of major allegations. It curiously omits many details, and does not categorically deny that the University assisted the defense. In short, despite its length and detail, it contains loopholes big enough to drive a truck through.

The statement does not mention, much less deny, the allegation that the two University physicians who examined the coeds were asked to change their reports in a way which would favor the defense. For example, as reported by Barry Kalb of the Washington Star, "Two doctors at George Washington University Hospital, who examined the girls after the attacks were asked, ten days later, to make out 'more complete' reports. Both of the second reports minimized the girls' injuries and backed off from their original conclusions that the injuries suggested 'recent violence.'" As to this allegation, which raises very serious questions concerning interference with a doctor-patient relationship, and arguably even of subornation of perjury, the statement is completely silent.

The statement does not discuss, much less deny, that the University refused to make available to a witness for the prosecution, a former University employee, a detailed report he filed with the University on the night of the alleged incidents. Again quoting from reporter Barry Kalb, "One witness, William P. Knorr, was night manager at the University's student union building where the first assault took place. He said that when he was asked to testify for the Government he asked the University for a copy of the report he had filed the night of the incident, and the University refused to give it to him...'The records were pretty much impounded by University officials,' Knorr said. 'They just scooped up everything and they covered up everything.'" Again, although such conduct might very seriously discourage cooperation between employees and/or students and the administration, and although both this and the preceding allegation had been widely reported and cited by me in my call for the appointment of an investigation committee, neither was mentioned, much less discussed or denied, in the University's lengthy statement.

-more-

Despite its apparent detail in describing the University's actions related to the criminal trial, many points are not mentioned or even alluded to in the statement, under circumstances which make their omission conspicuous and suspect. For example, again as stated by Kalb: "Another security man, Joseph Opalek, brought in for Dwyer (defense attorney) several photographs of the campus fire house, past which the youth and the second girl had gone from Lisner." Reporter Joseph Smith, writing for the Washington Post, reported: "Hoffman said it had been necessary for him to procure a court order to halt proceedings in the civil case after lawyers for the University and for Finney refused his request to postpone them until the criminal trial was over." Finally, I understand that a subpoena had to be issued to require the University to turn over certain documents to the Government. If any of these allegations are true, they clearly raise serious questions about the University's role and conduct. Curiously, despite the detail and apparent completeness of the University's statement, none of these points is mentioned, much less denied.

The statement does not discuss, much less deny, the allegation that despite all the bizarre circumstances of the alleged incidents, and the confession which the Judge ruled was voluntarily made, the University is taking the position that both (!) women on the same night voluntarily consented to the alleged sexual activity. In reporter Kalb's words: "The defendants in the civil case are attempting to show the girls were not raped, but had sexual relations with the youth voluntarily." As I indicated in my request for an investigation, such a position, although perhaps tactically sound, may be highly inconsistent with the University's obligations to its students; appears to be very demeaning to the two coeds, and to women students in general; and clearly would tend to discourage reports of rape, and perhaps encourage additional rape attempts. The University's statement responds in no way to this charge.

Finally, and most importantly, the University's statement did not respond to the most serious charge that it had assisted the defense. After being appropriately "appalled," the statement makes certain specific and carefully couched denials, but nowhere is there a clear and categorical denial that the University or any of its employees assisted the defense in any way (or at least other than those specifically detailed in the statement). A careful reading of the statement does not preclude, for example, any of the following: (1) that high administration officials, not members of the security staff, did assist the defense; (2) that attorneys other than those representing the University in its civil suit may have assisted in the preparation of the defense; (3) that the University acting through officers of the administration, may have adopted policies or taken positions making the prosecution far more difficult (e.g., on the release of vital information); or (4) that attorneys representing the University guard, who presumably are working closely with the University since they are co-defendants in the civil case, may have acted as the go-between in assisting the defense.

In summary, even if accepted as the gospel truth, the University's statement, despite its detail and the time taken to prepare it, does not respond directly to any of the allegations which have been made. Moreover, many people will not be willing to accept a carefully-worded and self-serving denial smoked out fully six days after the charges were made only by a barrage of critical publicity. An impartial committee appointed to investigate the charges would do much to clear the air; a report that all of the allegations were unfounded would satisfy virtually all doubts, and untarnish the University's reputation in the Greater Washington Community.

METRO CONSTRUCTION--- The intersection of 22nd and Eye Streets, N.W. will be closed to all traffic during the period from December 26 to 31. There will be local access to all residences and business establishments from adjoining streets.

ART AND ARCHEOLOGY PROGRAM IN ITALY--- The Department of Art, in cooperation with the Etruscan Foundation and the College of General Studies, is offering in 1973 a four-and-one-half-week course (August 1 to 31) titled "Etruscan Art and Archeology" at the Villa Spannochia, a private estate in central Italy, headquarters of the Etruscan Foundation near Siena and Florence. Thirty students will be accepted for the program, which may be taken for undergraduate or graduate credit (six hours). Students will live at the Villa Spannochia. Lectures and discussions will occupy weekday mornings. In the afternoons, groups of 10 to 15 students will participate in excavation work at nearby Etruscan tombs. Professor of Art and Archeology William A. MacDonald will direct the program. Italian lecturers will include Dante Piccini, Chief Restorer in the Department of Antiquities, Etruria; and Professor Enzo Mazzeschi, Honorary Superintendent of Antiquities, Department of Siena. This is the first time that the University has had a cooperative program with the Etruscan Foundation. Cost will be approximately $1,000, which will include tuition, room and board, transportation to excavation sites, student round-trip air fare, and textbooks for the course. Call Professor MacDonald at x6087 or Bud Paul at CGS, x7062.

SUMMER INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL--- "The Land of Israel: Its Historic Role and the Modern State of Israel" will be the topic for a seven-week summer institute in Israel in July and August, 1973 (exact dates to be announced). The institute is jointly sponsored by George Washington and The Jewish Agency, and carries six semester hours of credit. A study will be made of the role of the land and history of Israel in the growth of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, with attention to the country's contemporary situation. Classes, field trips, and cultural programs will be planned for four and a half days a week, with free time from Friday noon until Monday morning. Plans are being made for participation in an archeological dig during part of the tour. Accommodations will be provided in schools and modest hotels. Kosher food and Sabbath will be observed. The institute will be conducted by Professor of Religion Robert G. Jones, Assistant Professorial Lecturer in Religion, Rabbi Martin S. Halpern, and Israeli scholars. This will be the third year for this program. Cost is $1,250 which includes round-trip transportation by jet between New York and Israel, accommodations in Israel (room, board, field trips, tours, lectures), and tuition. Students will be accepted until the limit of 35 is reached or until April 1, 1973. Call the Department of Religion x6325.

NOTE: These two overseas credit courses have been established for the stated number of students. Any family members wishing to accompany students should make separate individual inquiries directly to the departments.

-Monday Report-